ICC Scores Omaha Ammo-Truck Crash

Report Blames Driver

Handling Said 'Indefensible'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission said Thursday the handling of an ammunition-laden truck which collided with a private automobile near Omaha, Neb., last Oct. 9 was "indefensible" and points to need for greater control over drivers engaged in such transportation.

A report on the investigation into the accident said the truck was traveling 50 miles an hour at the time of the mishap and, while although this was within the allowed limit, it was "an excessive rate of speed" considering the nature of the cargo and the traffic density.

The report said also that the truck driver "persisted in driving too close to other vehicles."

The truck was operated by Watson Brothers Transportation Co., of Omaha. The driver was Lawrence F. Davis, 29, of Omaha, who, the ICC report said, had been twice arrested for speeding in 1953.

Struck Rear

The truck struck the private automobile from the rear. The Oct. 9 accident, which occurred near the entrance of Boys Town, Neb., resulted in death to three occupants of the automobile. A fourth occupant and Davis were seriously injured when the collision was followed by a fire which exploded the 27,260-pound truck cargo of 105-millimeter ammunition.

The ICC report said:

"The driving practices revealed by this accident are indefensible, particularly in view of the dangerous nature of the traffic transported."

"It is clearly apparent that there is need for carriers transporting explosives to exercise greater control over the practices of their drivers."

Eastern and western railroads only Thursday renewed a long fight against letting truck companies transport Army ammunition over public highways.

The railroads, in a brief filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission, specifically protested a recent recommendation by an ICC examiner to make permanent a temporary permit held by Clairmont Transfer Co. of Minneapolis, Minn., to truck explosives between Green Bay, Wis., and Camp Lucas, at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

Take Note

The railroads asked the commission to take note of a series of recent highway collisions and explosions involving motor carriers handling explosive shipments in the Midwest.

The Clairmont operation involves an exchange of trailers with other trucks carrying ammunition at Green Bay. The railroads noted that one of Clairmont's connecting companies is Watson Brothers Transportation Co. of Omaha, Neb., whose trucks figured in three of the recent highway mishaps. The ICC has ordered an investigation into Watson's operations to determine whether its authority to have explosives should be revoked.

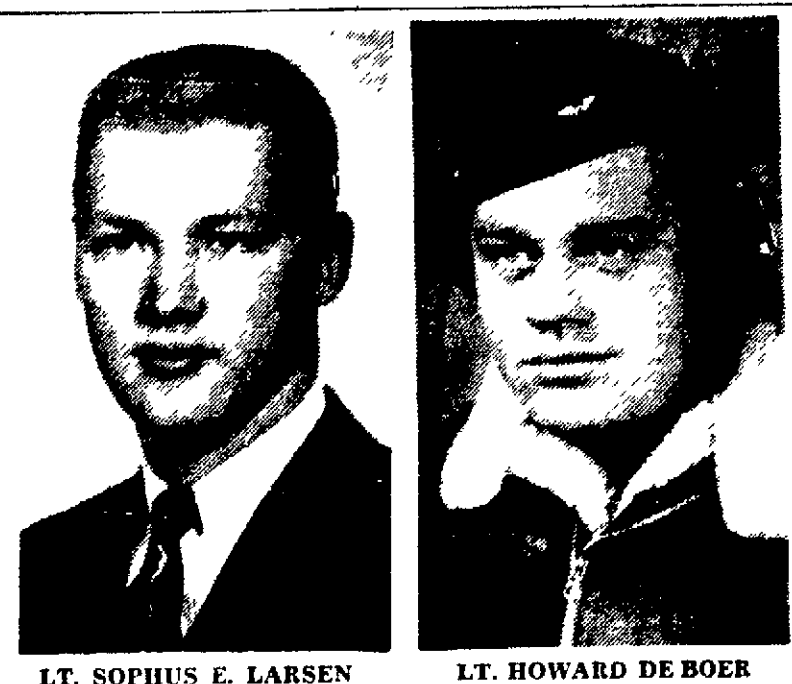

Watson Brothers officials said at Omaha last week that they were satisfied their driver was not to blame for an accident near Malvern, Ia., involving a Watson truck and a produce truck. The trucks collided, touching off an explosion of 105-millimeter shells being hauled by the Watson truck.

No Emergency

The railroads contended there has been no showing of any emergency requiring the use of trucks between Green Bay and Camp Lucas. They asserted that the Army has a rail connection about a half mile from the camp, but does not use this for ammunition shipments, presumably because a possible explosion would damage the nearby Soo Locks, on railroad shipments to the camp, the ammunition is unloaded at a siding about 13 miles from the ammunition dump.

In view of these circumstances the railroads asserted that in order to help the Army avoid the 32-mile haul from the rail siding "the ICC examiner would authorize transportation of dangerous explosives by commercial haulers over public highways for thousands of miles over endless public facilities, bridges, and tunnels and through innumerable towns."

The brief said that because the Clairmont operation is a connecting one, the authority for unlimited interchange at Green Bay "amounts to an authority which blankets the United States. The Army wants to truck all these dangerous explosives through Wisconsin and Illinois, and variously through Indiana, Kentucky and Michigan."

Color TV Gets Final Approval By FCC

'It May Be Years' Before Sets Can Be Produced In Quantity; 1st Receivers To Cost $800

WASHINGTON (INS)—The government finally approved color televisions for commercial use Thursday night, but a manufacturers' group said "it may be years" before color sets can be produced in quantity.

The Federal Communications Commission, ending a long controversy, authorized commercial broadcasting of a widely-endorsed "compatible" system which can be received in color on special sets and in black and white on all receivers now in the public's hands.

Minutes later the Radio-Electronics-Television Manufacturers Association hailed the action as "an important forward step in the evolution of the television art."

However, the association added: "It will be some time before more than a few hours weekly are devoted to color broadcasts. For a long time to come, most television programs will continue to be broadcast in black and white."

"Only a trickle of color television receivers will be manufactured during 1954—it may be years before quantity production can be reached."

The system now authorized by FCC was developed and promoted by the National Television System Committee, an industry-wide group of electronics manufacturers.

FCC said the approved standards "provide a reasonable basis for the development of a color television service in the public interest."

Industry officials have estimated the first color receivers will cost from $800 to $1,000 for sets with 14-inch picture tubes.

However, experts believe prices will drop and picture size increase as full-scale production gets under way.

Frank M. Folsom, president of the Radio Corporation of America, said the firm will spend an additional $15 million within the next year "to establish this new service on a solid foundation."

John Curtiss Elected Head Of Chamber

John E. Curtiss, public relations director of the general office of Consumers Public Power District, was elected president of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce Thursday night.

Active in local and national veteran's affairs and community service, Curtiss is an American Legion national committeeman, a former national vice-commander of the Legion and a former state and Lincoln commander of the Legion.

He is a trustee of the Nebraska Children's Home Society, a member of Scottish Rite and former potentate of Sesostri Temple of the Shrine.

Mr. Curtiss is also a member of the Lions Club and the Methodist Church.

-Guam Air Crash- 2 State Residents Killed

Lincolnite, York Man Victims

Two Nebraskans, Lt. Sophus E. Larsen of Lincoln and Lt. Howard DeBoer of York, were among the victims of the B-29 crash at Agaña, Guam, early Thursday. The crash killed 19 and injured 12, three critically.

Their deaths were reported by the Mountain Home Air Force Base near Boise, Idaho, where the plane's crew was stationed. Lt. Larsen was pilot of the craft and Lt. DeBoer, bombardier.

Only a few minutes after the big Superfort had taken off for the United States with a crew of 10 and 6 military passengers, it dipped out of the stormy sky and bowed in a ball of fire into the quonset homes just short of the airstrip.

The doomed Superfort cut a 150-foot-wide swath 800 feet through a military housing area. Included in the dead were two officer families, a major, his wife and two daughters; and a colonel, his wife and three children. They were in their homes when the plane ripped through the area.

Lt. Larsen's wife, Lona, and Lt. DeBoer's wife, Shirley, both live at Mountain Home. The plane was returning to the base after completing a training mission in the Pacific.

Basketball Player

Lt. Larsen, 30, was a World War II veteran having served for three years with the Air Force quartermaster corps during the Italian campaign. He re-enlisted in the Air Corps in 1946 when he entered pilot training. He flew B-29s during the recent Korean War.

He was graduated from College View High School in 1940 where he starred as a basketball player. Following his Army service, he entered the University of Nebraska finishing a four-year course in three years. He received his degree in 1948 with a major in physical education.

Surviving are his wife, his mother, Mrs. Ida E. Larsen of 5028 Lowell; his father and step-mother, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Larsen of 5143 Orchard; four sisters, Mrs. Gladys Burns, Mrs. Ruby Chapman and Mrs. Pete Sougey, all of Lincoln, and Mrs. Marion Ingle of Sonoma, Calif.; four brothers, Robert W. of Alderwood, Wash., Richard of Omaha, and Arnold and Harold, both of Denver; and two step-sisters, Jennifer and Linda, at home.

His wife is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Story, also of Lincoln.

Worked In Lincoln

Lt. DeBoer, 32, was an employee of the State Chemical Laboratory in Lincoln from 1949 until 1952. A World War II bombardier, he was recalled to service in August, 1952. He won the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal with 15 clusters while serving in the European Theater of Operations.

He went overseas for a three-month tour of duty in September and was en route home at the time of the crash.

A graduate of York High School and York College, Lt. DeBoer received a Masters degree in chemical engineering from the University of Nebraska in 1948.

He was a member of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Surviving are his wife, two brothers, Francis of York and Robert of Gresham, and a sister, Mrs. Nadine Thompson of Illinois.

Harrison Lake 'Alumni' Plead For Retention

It is very impressive for travelers coming into the city on 14th from Highway 77.

"I am emphatically in favor of keeping the lake," said Builder Karl Witt who, as a youth, "fished bullheads out of the lake and swam and skated there. There are too few such bodies of water in Lincoln. The city could do many things for economy. The lake area could be filled in and houses built on it but I don't believe anyone really wants it filled."

Attorney Fred Cassidy, 2675 Sewell, stated he has known the lake "since it used to be called Durfee's Pond. The kids are entitled to the lake and it should be retained."

Another man who lived near the lake for 26 years, Henry Wiederspan, now of 3785 C, said, "If I lived there today, I would hate to see the lake filled. I had many pleasant moments there and my son practically lived on the lake."

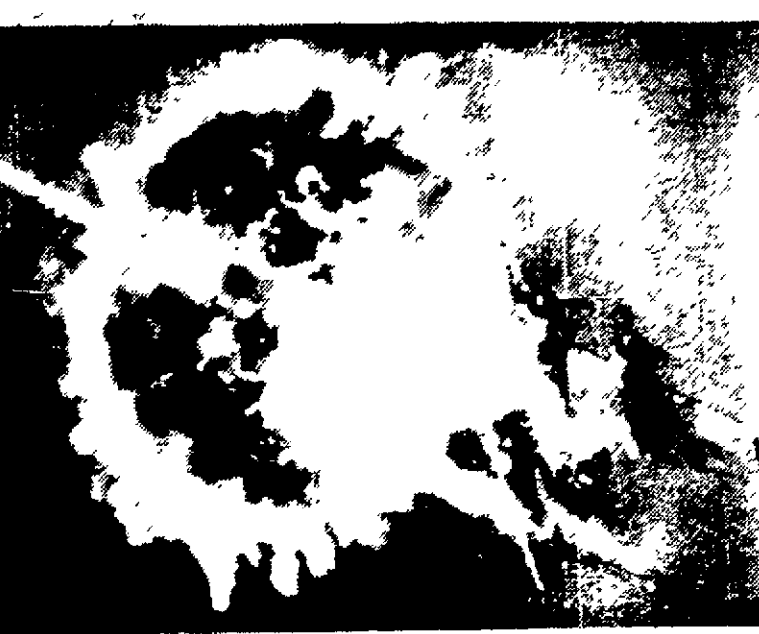

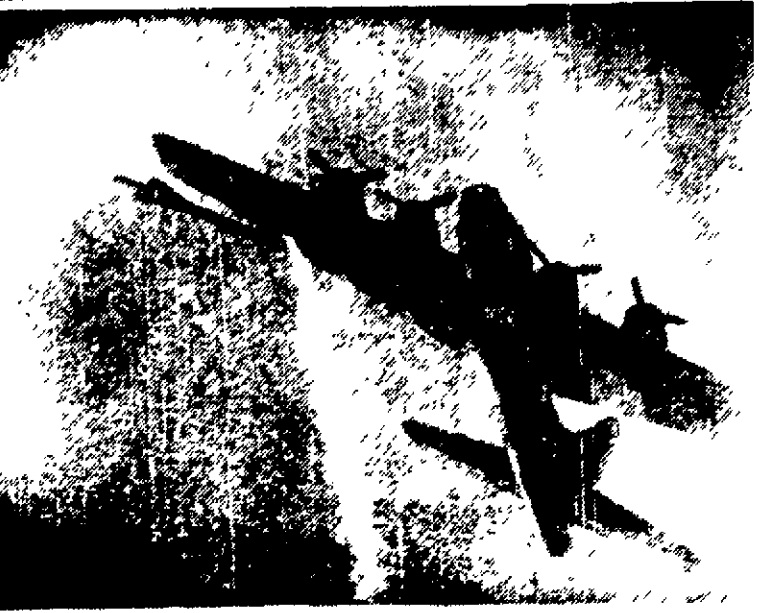

The desirable location of the lake was stressed by Albert Wehr, 2734 Dudley. "There are not enough of these lakes in the city now," said Wehr. "Oak Lake and the lake at Pioneer Park are too far away for many little children. With the area it has to draw from, I think it is a shame to close the lake (Harrison) up."

The voice of the Lincoln Boat Club has also been added to the support of the lake. Ray Tankersley, Club president, stated he felt "there is no pond that can be replaced with a playground to satisfy little children. I believe the lake should be retained. Playgrounds are fine but you can't very well go out and swing or teeter-totter in the winter like you can ice skate."

A large delegation is expected to appear before the City Council Monday to ask for reconsideration of current plans to fill the lake.

Designed To Track Down, Destroy

This is Nike, an antiaircraft guided missile, faster than sound, designed to track down and destroy invading enemy aircraft. And here, in action against a big target plane at White Sands Proving Ground, N. M., it does that with fine efficiency. The Nike comes in under the wing (top) and then hits the target plane (bottom) and explodes. The smoke coming from the wing of the plane itself at top was set there to enable photographers to follow the action. (U. S. Army Photos via AP Wirephoto Thursday Night.)

Mother, Two Children Saved From Asphyxiation By Gas

A mother and two small children were overcome late Thursday afternoon by what firemen said was an apparent lack of oxygen with possible carbon monoxide poisoning. All were reported recovering.

The mother was Mrs. Amelia Medina who lives with her husband, Isidro, a Union Pacific yardworker, and five children in a trailer just north of 505 South West 1st St.

The two smaller children, Gloria, 1, and Nena, 4, were found huddled unconscious in the west end of the trailer by Margie, 5, a sister, who had just returned from school with a brother, Billy, 8, and a sister, Barbara, 7.

Emergency treatment was given the stricken mother after she and the children were taken from the trailer by Ernest Delgado, 17, who lives at the home to the south. All three were taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital where the children were reported recovering. The mother was reported hardest hit.

Assistant Fire Chief Henry Spahn said a gas stove was found burning in the trailer which would indicate there was no escaping gas and the family consequently was not overcome by fumes.

Spahn said the trailer was closed to ventilation, indicating the mother and the children may have been overcome by lack of oxygen and possibly by fumes given off by the stove.

Total Yield

This fact helped hold up the total yield for the state.

But in south central and southwestern Nebraska the yield was "very disappointing," Logan continued.

The only exception was the irrigated land, which produced as well as in other years.

"Water and fertilizer paid off this year," Logan commented.

The total corn acreage was up in Nebraska this year, and most of the increased acreage represented abandoned wheat areas. This fact was due to the poor start which much wheat got in the dry fall of 1952, and helped hold down the total yield.

Poor Showing

Farmers whose wheat made a poor showing in the fall planted their fields to corn last spring, only to be overtaken again by a shortage of moisture.

Hall, Bonnie Heady Die In Gas Chamber

Only Mystery Of Missing Ransom Remains In Kidnap-Killing Case

By LARRY HALL
JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (Friday) (AP) — The Greenlease kidnap killers died side by side in the gas chamber today, impassive to the end.

At the last, just before the gas chamber closed, U.S. Marshal William D. Tatman asked them if they had anything to tell him.

Both shook their heads negatively and Mrs. Heady said aloud: "No."

It was another of many last minute attempts to find out what happened to half the record $600,000 ransom paid the slayers of 6-year-old Bobby Greenlease. The money has been missing since capture of the pair.

For 10 minutes the one-time lovers chatted together, smiling and apparently at ease in a little detention cell just outside the gas chamber.

Hall was smoking a cigarette and he leaned over to give Mrs. Heady a puff.

They were manacled, but held hands while they talked.

Mrs. Heady, who seemed animated, laughed aloud at something said by Marshal Tatman who sat in front of them while they sat side by side on a cot.

While Mrs. Heady watched, a black blindfold was put over Hall's eyes, tied in back with a double strap.

Then she was blindfolded and they were lead into the gas chamber, Hall going first.

Going Nowhere

"I can't see a thing," Mrs. Heady said.

While she was being strapped into her chair she said, "It is tight. I'm not going anywhere."

She asked Carl if he had plenty of room. He did not answer. He was breathing hard as the straps were tightened.

Finally, the straps on, she called out: "Are you doing all right Honey?"

Hall replied: "Yes, Mama." Just before the door clanged shut, Mrs. Heady told the marshal and the guards "Goodbye, thanks for everything."

One of the guards who had seen the prisoners daily in death row, Vernon Poiry, shook hands with Hall, who said "Thanks, very much."

They kept on talking to each other even after the door of the lethal chamber had been sealed at 12:04 a.m.

Heavy Cloud

The cyanide pellets were released 30 seconds later and the deadly gas rose in a heavy white cloud.

Hall took a big gulp of it, but Mrs. Heady appeared to hold her breath for an instant. Her breathing continued for more than two seconds after Hall's respiratory movements had stopped.

One of the prison doctors, Dr. C. Donald Shull, said Mrs. Heady kept breathing longer than anyone he had ever seen.

Death came 12 minutes after midnight for Hall and at 14 minutes and 10 seconds after 12 for Mrs. Heady.

The prison was unusually quiet for an execution night.

Witnesses waited outside the deputy warden's office in the prison courtyard until the condemned pair were taken from death row at 11:32 P.M. and driven through the cold, still winter night a quarter of a mile to the gas chamber.

An arbor in the prison yard was draped with Christmas trimmings and a garland of lights and bright bangles. These were part of the annual decorations put up by convicts.

Mutter Prayers

There were a few shouts from nearby cell blocks as the witnesses paraded down to the gas chamber.

"There they go," called some one through the night.

"Pour it on them," shouted another.

When the prisoners reached the death house, they muttered prayers for a few minutes, the Rev. George L. Evans, Episcopal minister from Kansas City, and his curate, the Rev. Robert H. Bull II.

Evans said the killers were "absolutely and completely reconciled" at the end.

He said they were equally calm and made no last requests.

"They are prepared to meet almighty God," he said.

The private chat of the kidnapers with Tatman sitting in could not be seen throughout the death chamber, but when Hall came out to enter the gas tank, his lips were red as if he had received a final kiss.

They shuffled into the gas tank, led by guards who tried to keep them from stumbling, but both almost tripped when they stepped up to get through the door.

Hall sat to the left, as seen from the door, and Mrs. Heady to the right.

Most condemned prisoners have their hair cut short before execution. But Hall and Mrs. Heady were not shorn. Her dark brown hair was wavy and carefully combed.

Neither got a clear view of the gas tank and its deadly apparatus. It was kept screened from them until after the blindfolds were affixed.

Mrs. Heady wore a bright green cotton prison dress and a pair of stuff type sandals. Hall wore a white shirt and dark trousers.

Marshall K. Hoag of Pleasanton, Kan., a lifelong friend of the Hall family, said Hall would be given a decent and proper burial but did not disclose where. Both his father and mother are buried in Pleasanton.

Mrs. Heady will be buried Saturday morning in her family plot in the cemetery at Clearmont, Mo., her girlhood home. There the cemetery board has taken extraordinary measures to keep the funeral from becoming a public spectacle.

Only one mystery of the whole shocking case remained — what happened to half of the $600,000 ransom paid by the boy's multimillionaire father, Robert C. Greenlease.

On the last day Hall repeated to his attorney that he was "absolutely reconciled." He said he had told everything he knew about the money and that his 41-year-old divorced mistress knew nothing about it.

"Nobody got the money away from me until after I was arrested," Hall was quoted as saying by Roy K. Dietrich of Kansas City, his court-appointed lawyer.

Hall made one last effort to absolve his paramour. As he did in his Federal Court trial at Kansas City last month, he asked Dietrich to say "Mrs. Heady is in no way to blame."

The condemned pair's last meal was eaten together at 5 p.m. It was the only meal they shared since they entered the prison Nov. 20.

Thomas Whitecotton, director of the State Department of Corrections, said they ate heartily, cleaning up most of the fried chicken dinner they had requested.

It was a fantastic case from the start. Its shocking nature grew in the public mind when it became known the kidnapers planned to kill little Bobby even before Mrs. Heady lured him away from his exclusive Catholic school in Kansas City.

Once they were caught and brought to speedy justice, both pleaded guilty. They were condemned to death on the recommendation of a federal jury called under the Lindbergh kidnaping law. Not a single appeal was taken and both said they wanted none.

Dean Says: Reds To 'Dispose Of GIs'

U.S. Envoy Returns
After Futile Talks

WASHINGTON (INS) — U.S. Envoy Arthur Dean predicted on his return from Korea Thursday night that the 22 pro-Communist unrepatriated Americans will "be assassinated or sent to slave labor camps" as soon "as their advertising value is over."

Dean arrived at National Airport after a report of seven weeks of futile talks with North Koreans and Chinese Communists in an effort to set up a peace conference.

The envoy for the 16 United Nations countries which fought in Korea declared the 22 Americans who are refusing to come home "have been hoodwinked and given fantastic promises by the Communists."

He added that he "hasn't the slightest doubt" that the entire group will be killed, sent to slave labor camps "or otherwise disposed of" once the Reds have used them for their propaganda value.

Slender Wire
Dean also expressed belief that the Americans were not being held through intimidation.

He noted that there is only "a slender barbed wire" between them and Indian guards and that they could call for assistance any time they wished.

The envoy also declared he is "confident that hostilities will not be resumed" in Korea and that he was sure the Reds would find a way to retract their charges of "perfidy" which would be acceptable to the U.S.

The perfidy charges hurled by the Communist negotiators contended that the United States "conspired" with the South Koreans to permit escape of thousands of anti-Communist North Korean prisoners.

Dean broke off talks until an apology was offered.

Removal Of Blue River Dam Seen

By BILL HINEL
Beatrice Staff

BEATRICE, Neb.—As a partial solution to Beatrice flood problems, the Gage County Drainage District has offered to purchase the Black Brothers Dam at Beatrice for the purpose of tearing it out and letting the Blue River flow unimpeded at the Court Street bridge.

Wyman Kenagy of the Goch Milling & Elevator Co. of Lincoln confirmed Thursday night reports that sale of the dam had been discussed.

"No formal offer or agreement has yet been made," Kenagy told The Star, but "we have been discussing it for some time."

At Beatrice, Arlie Jackson, vice president of the drainage district, said Thursday that definite steps had been taken toward obtaining the dam and that financing plans are now under way.

Offer $18,000
An informed source said that the district had offered $18,000 for the dam which causes a bottleneck at the Court Street bridge and is partially blamed for the heavy flood damage caused by the Blue River.

Jackson said that members of the district had conferred with the U. S. Engineers Office at Kansas City and the office had recommended removal of the dam as a step toward solving the flood problem at Beatrice. "Anyone knows," said Jackson, "that more water will flow through a larger hole."

"Removal of the dam will enlarge the channel and give us another 12 feet," he said.

In PURSUIT of HAPPINESS

By J. GORDON ROBERTS

Adoption of children is commendable.

Such adoption may, moreover, be as helpful to the adopting parents as to the child.

The Most Reverend Fulton J. Sheen, in a recent television broadcast, explained the importance of children in the home. He pointed out that love, however intense, may lead to boredom unless both parties find a common interest as compelling of attention as a child can be.

The Bishop also emphasized that a child may be very demanding, indeed.

Sometimes, of course, relatives are called upon to rear the children of those departed. There can be no more selfless way of expressing love for those gone than through the rearing of their children. Those assuming responsibility for the moulding of a young life should not, however, assume such a task as a burden, with an air of martyrdom.

In the first place, as Bishop Sheen explained so clearly, the rearing of children is not without its compensations. Sometimes, however, adopting parents make the mistake of threatening the child with placement in an orphanage, as a means of achieving discipline. However, zoeed the motivation of such action, psychologists say that the results are not good.

In the mind of the child, such placement is far worse than exile by which governments have, from time to time, punished adults. The adult has the maturity to meet such a challenge in a way which a child cannot. Moreover, the adult has a choice of places to go. The child does not. He is trapped.

Such a threat leads the child to believe that the "security" he finds in such a household is the most desirable which exists. He is, in effect, taught to believe that the only other conditions possible are worse than even his present insecure position.

Small wonder that such a threat may lead to neurosis, as psychologists say that it may.

Multiple Greetings Expressed

Christmas Marks Anniversary Of Freedom For Peru Teacher

PERU, Neb. (Lincoln Star Special)—This is the time of year when the spirit of almost every one mellowed at least to a degree but on the campus of Peru State College there is an instructor to whom every Yuletide season is especially significant. He approaches the holiday season with more than the usual humility and gratitude because it marks the anniversary of a new birth of freedom for him, the time 31 years ago when he arrived on Christmas Day to start a new life in America, putting behind him a life of fear and uncertainty occasioned by Russian terrorism.

Prof. George Rath, who teaches classes in Russian, German,

French and Spanish at Peru was a young minister of the gospel who had fled from anti-Christian persecution by the Soviets when he came to America in 1922. At that time the term DP was not so commonly used and understood as it is today but Rath's unhappy past qualified him for the classification in many ways.

Raised In Ukraine

Rath was born of German parents and grew up in the Russian Ukraine where he received his early education before entering the gymnasium (comparable to high school and junior college in America) at Anafieff in the province of Odessa north of the Black Sea in 1906. It was while a student here that he first developed an interest in languages as he studied French and Latin in addition to his native German tongue.

In 1912 he entered the university at Dorpat, Russia and was graduated in 1916, just in time to be pressed into the Russian army for World War I duty.

With his army career behind him and an uncertain future ahead, Rath headed for Birsula and home where he had hopes of spending his lifetime working among his people as a minister of the gospel after a two year training period that he would spend in Germany.

By the time he finished his ministerial training in the spring of 1922 there was nothing but bad news from home. All Christian ministers were banned, 200 Protestant Lutheran ministers had disappeared, and all the men of his home village had been carried off to prison in a mass arrest. Rath's father and several uncles later died in the Bolshevik prison.

He had relatives in Kansas, so going there looked like the thing to do. He just made it in time for Christmas dinner in 1922.

The following spring he was ordained a Lutheran minister at Laramie, Wyo. and held pastorates at Rock River and Worland, at Laurel, Mont., at Loveland and Denver in Colorado and at Jensen, Neb. before joining the Peru State faculty in 1946.

Under questioning by Defense Attorney Charles Fisher the county judge said Thursday that County Attorney John Keriakides had explained to young McLain that he had a right to an attorney, to a preliminary hearing and to plead not guilty.

The judge testified that it had not been explained to McLain that a guilty plea could be used against him or that everything he said might be used against him.

At the end of Thursday's session, the jury was excused while the state began laying the groundwork for a statement taken from McLain Oct. 12 in the Gering, Neb., jail. Point of Thursday's arguments was to determine whether the statement was voluntary.

State Safety Patrol Lt. Leo Knudsen, who with Sheridan County Sheriff Wendell Hills had taken the statement, described how the statement was given.

Another witness Thursday was P. G. Duncan, Federal Bureau of Investigation laboratory expert from Washington. He testified he found human blood, though he could not establish that it was human, on a sweater belonging to Karen and found after her body was recovered.

Pictures of Karen's body were accepted as exhibits in the trial earlier in the day, but only after they had been trimmed to show only part of the girl's skull.

The defense contended that pictures showing more than this would tend to inflame the jury of six men and six women.

News Around The Globe

1st Missile Battery Forming

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army announced Thursday night the first Nike antiaircraft guided missile battery is being installed at Ft. Meade, Md.—obviously to provide protection for the nation's capital, Baltimore and industrial-military targets in the surrounding area.

It also discussed officially for the first time some details of the faster-than-sound weapon designed to track down and destroy, "regardless of evasive action," invading enemy aircraft.

It said the Nike system, to be extended to other vital areas of the East and West Coasts and the Northern half of the nation, "will provide defended areas with a far greater degree of antiaircraft protection than was ever before possible with the more limited ranges and altitudes of conventional antiaircraft guns."

VERSAILLES, France (AP)—Marcel Naegelen, 61-year-old Socialist ex-governor of Algeria and foe of the U.S.-backed European Army plan, led on the first two ballots Thursday in the French Parliament's voting to name a new president of France.

The 932 senators and deputies, sitting jointly in the old Versailles Palace, then put off further balloting until Friday.

CHICAGO (AP)—Settlement of a wage dispute between the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the nation's railroads was announced Thursday night in a joint union-management statement.

Parcel Post Mail Below 1952 Volume

Both incoming and outgoing parcel post mail at the Lincoln Post Office is off about 15 per cent from the 1952 Yuletide Season although other classes are ahead for the Dec. 1 to 15th period.

Superintendent of Mails Gerald D. Jones said the explanation he could offer in the slump in parcel post is the possibility that people are a bit later in their Christmas mailing this year.

Post office receipts for December up to the 15th were $140,341 as compared with $127,116 for the same 1952 period.

Comparison of all classes of mail in pounds as well as percentage gain or loss for Dec. 1-15 are:

Flames Destroy Garage; Damage Estimated At $50

Flames destroyed a story and a half vacant garage at 514 No. 14th Thursday evening. Fire officials set the damage at $50.

The 5:56 p.m. alarm brought firemen rushing to the University of Nebraska property where flames were leaping skyward. Firemen almost immediately brought the blaze under control, before it could extend to any adjacent buildings.

Cause of the fire was unknown. The garage was vacant except for rubbish.

Young GOPs Set Cautious Policy On Douglas Platform

Members of the Lancaster County Young Republicans Club Thursday night decided to steer a cautious course for the present in regard to a much-publicized platform adopted by the Douglas County Young GOP.

The fact that the Douglas County platform was not in line with announced national Republican policy prompted a movement at the meeting of the Lancaster County group to vote to support the national platform. This motion, however, was tabled, and a committee was named to "look into this thing."

The Douglas County Young Republicans earlier this week adopted a platform which called for immediate U. S. withdrawal from the United Nations, removal of American ground forces and economic aid from Europe and for elimination of farm price supports.

Jim Diesing, former state young GOP officer, told the Lan-

Doctor Guilty On Narcotics Sale Charge

OMAHA (AP)—A federal district court jury Thursday night found Dr. Charles Wells Neill, South Sioux City, Neb., physician, guilty of illegally issuing narcotics prescriptions.

The jury of 11 women and one man found the doctor guilty on each of 11 counts on which he was charged.

David Lathrop, a defense attorney, said the verdict would be appealed. Dr. Neill's $1,500 cash bond was continued.

Lancaster club president Mark Meyers named the committee of four to study the Lancaster and national platforms and to report back.

Ike Pledges 'Further Reduction' In U.S. Spending

Differences Of Opinion Turn Up Among Legislators On Economy

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Eisenhower pledged "further reduction" in government spending as he and Republican legislative leaders wound up Thursday night their first round of conferences on the GOP program for the new Congress session opening next month.

The Chief Executive said, too, that "leaders of the Republican Party will continue to present a successful, sound and productive program that will serve the welfare of 160 million Americans."

Eisenhower put in a 10-hour day with members of his cabinet, other key administration officials and Republican leaders of Congress. He gave them an advance look at the program he intends to present to Congress in January, with the emphasis Thursday on:

The federal budget, the defense program, foreign operations, absentee voting for overseas servicemen, housing law amendments and extended coverage of the unemployment insurance program.

When it was all over, the President issued a statement relating in general terms what topics were considered.

Fiscal Outlook
While he said nothing about prospects of budget balancing, the President put in this paragraph on the government's finances:

"The fiscal outlook was for a continuation of the substantial progress this administration has already made in its revision of the budget for fiscal 1954 that was prepared by the previous administration. In fiscal 1955 (beginning next July 1, 1954) we will continue this progress by further reduction of expenditures and further reduction of new spending authority."

From 8:30 a.m. (EST) Thursday morning until 6:30 p.m. Thursday night, the conferences went on in the White House cabinet room, with only a break for lunch, at which the discussions still continued. Various charts were placed around the room to assist in pinpointing the legislative problems coming up in the congressional session beginning in January.

The absentee voting question was something that hadn't figured in advance conjectures about the conference agenda. Eisenhower didn't go into details on that or on any other issue, but presumably he referred to getting ballots for military men overseas in the 1954 congressional election.

Good Housing
On housing, the President said, administrator Albert Cole of the Housing and Home Finance Agency "presented for consideration a legislative program with special emphasis on assisting low income families in obtaining good housing accommodations."

Eisenhower said a start was made on health plans by Secretary of Health Education and Welfare Hobby, but will continue on Friday.

Eisenhower had asked Thursday morning that all the conferees keep the discussions confidential. Therefore most congressional leaders left it to the President to do any talking for them in his statement.

"My mouth," said Vice President Nixon, "is closed."

However, differences of opinion turned up among some of the legislators on the prime problem of economy.

The man who fires the starting gun to start all the money bills through Congress, Chairman Taber (R-N.Y.) of the House Appropriations Committee, spoke up for cuts all "down the line."

The chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, Rep. Short (R-Mo.), said there can be some saving but not too much.

Capt. Craig Funeral Rites To Be Friday

Military services for Capt. Fritz Craig Jr., 27, 2801 Eastgate, Nebraska Air Guard pilot who died instantly Wednesday when his F-80 jet crashed near Crete, will be at 2 p.m. Friday at Holy Trinity Episcopal Church.

The Rev. David Gracey will officiate. Burial will be in Soldiers Circle at Wyuka.

Col. John M. Campbell, chief of air staff, Headquarters Nebraska Air National Guard, said no determination of the cause of the crash would be made until completion of an investigation.

The investigation is being made by senior officers of Capt. Craig's group, the 173rd Fighter Squadron.

1st Col. Fred H. Bailey, squadron commander, said three appointments to the investigation board have been made and at least two more officers will be added to the board.

Named were Maj. Milton L. Hugelberger, operations officer; Capt. Clarence Christensen, maintenance officer, and Capt. Lloyd L. Johnson, flight leader.

The board must hold its formal meeting on such an investigation within 10 working days after a crash.

Its report will be submitted to Col. Bailey and filed with the director of Flying Safety (Headquarters, Air Force) at San Bernardino, Calif.

SEOUL, (AP) - The Army planned for months and spent millions of dollars to keep its soldiers warm in Korea this winter but a "cold weather casualty" cropped up Thursday. A 7th Division supply clerk, Cpl. Rex C. Burdette, Route 3, Clayville, Pa., slipped into a warm sleeping bag last night and placed his false teeth in a cup of water. Water and teeth were frozen solid when he got up. He was late for breakfast.

Russia's Malenkov, it appears, now has everything under control.

That is the chief significance of Beria's brief return to the headlines through announcement that the former head of the Russian secret police has confessed to conspiring against the Soviet regime, and shortly will go on trial. Moscow's announcement is an amazing statement. In Beria's case, the Kremlin says, his traitorous activities go back for a period of 35 years.

If Beria's trial follows the familiar lines, he will be hauled into court, confess fully and freely to treasonable conspiracy, and probably face a firing squad along with some or all of his associates. Beria merits no tears. As head of the Russian secret police, he himself set the pattern for what he now faces. Whatever his fate may be, he saw to it that others coming into disfavor with the Russian government, meaning the disfavor of a handful of men who constitute the Russian government, paid the penalty.

More important is the fact that if Beria actually is alive, and is shortly to go to trial, then we have been badly misled by the more recent news out of Russia. It pictured the present regime headed by Malenkov as uncertain, faced with revolt. The fact that Beria is reported to be facing trial could be explained by a mounting desperation on the part of the men now ruling Russia, but more likely can be accepted as positive evidence that Malenkov has made his regime secure. Ordinarily a Beria purge would not be undertaken if Malenkov and his associates had any doubt as to where they stood.

Career Man's Farewell

Time and again it has been said in this country that the weakness of America's diplomatic service can be charged to the fact that our representatives abroad are the product of political patronage. The so-called "lush posts" in foreign countries are used to reward the party faithful. They have been chosen, it has been said, not on the basis of competency or experience but are passed around to those who contribute generously to the party war chest or perform other useful political service.

Just now it appears that Sam Waugh of Lincoln, occupying an important post in the State Department and doing a swell job, as good a job as any Nebraskan back in Washington, is under the mild fire of Republican colleagues because he has not "cleaned house"—another way of saying that he has not made enough jobs available to satisfy some of the job-hungry Republicans.

Virtually every man occupying a more important role on Ike's team faces the same criticism.

The case of John Allison, another Nebraskan, is mentioned. Mr. Allison is ambassador to Japan, a post for which he is highly qualified. He has been in the diplomatic service virtually since his graduation from the University of Nebraska. The bulk of his service has been in the Far East. Mr. Allison, it is true, served the State Department under Secretary Dean Acheson. He helped the present secretary of state, John Foster Dulles, negotiate the Japanese peace treaty. On the basis of knowledge and understanding, it would be difficult to find a better man for the post than Mr. Allison. But that could not possibly satisfy pie-hunters. So Allison is associated with Acheson, and because as a career diplomat it can be said that Allison assisted in the formulation of Far Eastern policy, the cry is for his scalp.

What nonsense!

John Allison is a very capable man, competent to perform outstanding service for his nation. He has given years of his life away from homeland and friends in the spirit of the career diplomat. We have no idea whether Allison is a Democrat or a Republican.

If Sam Waugh never has anything more to worry about than the fact that some Republicans include him in the general blanket criticism that "Republicans" have not been placed in all the jobs to be filled in Washington, then Mr. Waugh will be a most fortunate man, indeed.

The Eisenhower administration may find itself seriously embarrassed in the final judgment of history by the job-hunters seeking recognition. A court decision upheld the right of the President to appoint those whom he chose for those appointive offices which come under the Chief Executive. It was not clear from the news accounts to what extent the court's ruling nullified civil service rating. But if Mr. Eisenhower undertook to remove the great mass of government workers, he still would not solve the job problem.

There are not enough jobs to go around. Every administration faces that headache.

Of Men And Things

There never has been a year in American history when anyone looking around and about him has been unable to come up with evidence that people in the mass are incapable of self-government. To such cynics, one and all, Bert W. Bishop, writing in The Nebraskan, the student publication of the University of Nebraska, gives such a heart-warming answer.

"The real position of the educated man," young Mr. Bishop writes, "is not one of bitterness and contempt. It is, instead, one of humility and compassion. And while he is being humble and compassionate, he dares not be deferential or patronizing and must avoid pity. In each of these is obviously a condescending thing, and the man outside washing the window does not want to be patted—he wants to know. The man who is fortunate enough to have survived the initiation into real wisdom (and if education cannot accomplish these things, it is a waste of time) has the responsibility, as a thinking human being, to return to humanity on the outside to spread the word. . . . I can think of no more ignoble and degrading result of education than that it should build a clique of retreatists and pessimists. I can think of no more deliberating a misdirection of wisdom than one which results in contempt for and rejection of the ignorant. Unless humanity as a whole is capable of greatness over and above the selfish, evil and immoral, then the concept of culture and the dignity of man is pure poppycock. And I, for one, refuse to believe any man who so decries."

This is to say the more learned and scholarly a man becomes, the greater his spirit of humility. Real scholarship creates the desire to know more. One short year's experience in a newspaper office is sufficient to implant in any intelligent newspaperman an overwhelming respect for the competency, the capability, and the high purpose of the average American. Each day in a newspaper office contributes not to cynicism, born of the feeling that the average individual is incapable of arriving at sound decisions affecting national welfare but in the heightened respect for his fellow man.

In the thinking of thoughtful Americans, surely the inherent strength of the individual is confirmed by America's strength. What else is the basis of American strength? Here we are, the most powerful country in the world, powerful in a material sense, but even more powerful in terms of ideas, literacy, and spiritual values.

That is not the work of a handful of educated men. It is the fruit of the sum total of American intelligence and character. It is the combination of the little people, the unknown, the countless millions who day after day go about life in self-effacing spirit and yet who each day make their own individual contributions to national greatness. No aristocracy is responsible for America's strength. In the face of inspired leadership at times there is no intellectual aristocracy which provides the basis for the American story. That story has been written by all of us, including the man without a college degree, desirable as a college degree may be—by the kindly neighbor, the conscientious workman, the individual who sees cradled in the sky his own aspirations for a decent land.

Why should anyone aspire to anything more than year after year to add to the treasure house of information, to the decreencies of civilization, and finally to the spiritual growth of his country?

The Post Dispatch

This month the St. Louis Post-Dispatch is enjoying its 75th anniversary. American journalism and those fortunate readers who have access to that truly great and just newspaper are joining in what they esteem to be an admirable and satisfying event.

The Post-Dispatch has conducted each of its 75 years to the highest expression of free, fair and fearless journalism in the most perfect American tradition. It has been a faithful carrier of dependable news, a great companion and instructor of the good citizen, a servant of people, an implacable and effective foe of venality and un-American action whatever the source.

Two things have made the Post-Dispatch great. One is a national philosophy that respects the individual and protects freedom of the press. The other is a group of editors and publishers who are big enough for their job, dedicated men able and willing to give to people and to the great institution of journalism that hard, demanding service that makes the business a sacrifice.

Not all of America's papers have been able to equal the Post-Dispatch's high level of journalism. Arrogance, selfishness or lack of concept have blunted the efforts. But these are a minority and their faltering fails to gainsay the fact that the pattern of the Post-Dispatch is the pattern of the rank and file of America's newspapers. Few Americans have a better friend and a truer companion than their community editor, day by day, year by year.

Good Neighbors

One of America's international vexations is its good neighbor policy with the Latin folks to the south—just can't get it into the right focus, somehow. The neighbors either like us too well or as equally dislike us.

The latest error was committed by the University of Miami. It thought it would be nice to send its drum majorettes to San Salvador to participate in a parade and celebration, 75 lounge girls in their colorful but strikingly brief attire. This time the Salvadorians were too enthusiastic. The fifty thousand spectators endorsed the good neighbor policy and decided to embrace it literally. They broke ranks and joyously descended on the girls who, being sensible Americans, made for the police station posthaste. Thereupon it was decided the parade would have to go on without the good neighbors who, themselves, thought that normal diplomacy was better, after all, though not so exciting nor especially productive of anything.

Haste Makes Clerks Out Of Top Echelon

WASHINGTON — John Foster Dulles has performed a lot of diplomatic chores, but never before has he been given the job of operating a stapling machine. That, however, was what he did over the Atlantic Ocean en route from Bermuda. With him as a co-clerical worker was Admiral Lewis Strauss plus one of the most distinguished secretarial staffs ever to do paper work.

What happened was that Ike was late in polishing up his famed atomic energy speech. Even while flying to New York, he applied the last mashing touches. As he did so, his secretary, Mrs. Ann Whitman, copied it out on a large-type typewriter, so the President could read it easily. Simultaneously, Mary Caffrey, Jim Hager's secretary, cut the mimeograph stencil.

In the rear of the plane, Hager himself ran the mimeograph machine. C. D. Jackson, who largely wrote the speech, put the pages together. Admiral Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, helped him, while Dulles stapled the pages.

Dulles was a little slow, however, and only 200 copies of the speech were finished when the Columbine landed. So the secret service grabbed copies of the stencil, rushed them to the U.N. mimeograph room, where more copies were ground out of the speech which had been billed—and was—one of the most momentous of the Eisenhower administration.

Not much of what he said got into the papers because it was off the cuff with no mimeographed text, but Alben Barkley's spicy humor was the smash hit of the Democratic dinner in Philadelphia.

Slyly referring to the way the Democrats backed away from him at the Chicago convention last year, Barkley said:

"When they asked me to come here, they told me I was to be toastmaster. But at 6:30, Steve Mitchell called and said Senator Francis Myers was to take that job. It wasn't the first time the Democratic party has switched to me."

The crowd roared.

"I'm now 76 years old," said the ex-veep. "In Cairo about a year ago I met an Arab fortune teller out at the pyramids who predicted I would live to be 105. That's one Arab I'm co-operating with very much."

Last year when Eisenhower won by such a big margin, I figured the Democrats would not come back for a long time," continued the venerable Kentuckian, "but in recent months I've begun to change my mind."

"The situation reminds me of a husband in Paris whose wife died and afterward he discovered she had been receiving the attentions of another gentleman who appeared at the funeral weeping. The husband was restrained in his grief, but the other man was not. He could hardly control himself. After the coffin was finally lowered into the grave, the husband said: 'I'm now 76 years old, I'm co-operating with very much.'"

WASHINGTON — That man from Mars visiting almost any community in America at this season would see evidence of prosperity underwritten by employment still virtually at a peak and payrolls only slightly diminished by a reduction of overtime in certain industries. Christmas shoppers are out in force and the mails are beginning to swell with the customary tide of packages and greeting cards.

Seeing all this, the man from Mars would be puzzled by the undercurrent of talk about trouble ahead. He would be told, certainly by the Republicans, that this was political, reflecting the frustration of the Democrats who regard a recession as their only opportunity to return to power. Adlai Stevenson was charged with playing that kind of politics when in his Philadelphia speech he included fear of a depression as one of the four fears induced by a Republican administration.

MARQUIS CHILDS Prosperity Abounds But Hard Times Lurk

WASHINGTON — That man from Mars visiting almost any community in America at this season would see evidence of prosperity underwritten by employment still virtually at a peak and payrolls only slightly diminished by a reduction of overtime in certain industries. Christmas shoppers are out in force and the mails are beginning to swell with the customary tide of packages and greeting cards.

Seeing all this, the man from Mars would be puzzled by the undercurrent of talk about trouble ahead. He would be told, certainly by the Republicans, that this was political, reflecting the frustration of the Democrats who regard a recession as their only opportunity to return to power. Adlai Stevenson was charged with playing that kind of politics when in his Philadelphia speech he included fear of a depression as one of the four fears induced by a Republican administration.

But a recent visitor to Washington, who can hardly be accused of playing politics, talked in his shrewd and earnest fashion about the signs of trouble he sees ahead and what steps he believes should be taken immediately. Mariner Eccles, for 12 years chairman of the board of governors of the Federal Reserve System and now living in San Francisco where he directs the world-wide operations of the Utah Construction Company, has a habit of being right. Calling the turn on the Truman inflation, he broke with the former President over fiscal policy and worked closely with his friend, the late Sen. Robert A. Taft.

In a long talk with W. Randolph Burgess, deputy to Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey, Eccles said he saw signs just ahead of the kind of recession calling for a concerted program of government action. Burgess was skeptical. He suggested that Eccles was giving too much rein to an inherent pessimism.

When it came down to what to do, the Eccles' view was right. Eccles readily agreed that substantial cuts could and should be made in defense spending. But instead of reducing the budget by the $4 or $5 billion saved in this way, Eccles recommended that the money saved be routed into constructive spending. He suggested that working through the cities and states it would be possible to put such an amount into highways and into an effort to break the bottlenecks that band patted the other man on the back and said: "Don't feel too bad, old pal. I'll marry again soon."

That, implied Barkley, was how the Democrats are cheering up the Republicans today—with the promise of being elected again soon.

CATTLE SMUGGLING

Though a little slow in moving, the Eisenhower administration played no favorites in prosecuting the smugglers of $1,000,000 worth of Charolais cattle into Louisiana from a hoof-and-mouth disease-infected part of Mexico. Alphe Broussard, the man who brought the prize cattle, has now been indicted; also Antonio Enrique Gilly, the man who sold the cattle to him; and William L. Babb, the man who actually did the smuggling.

John Minor Wisdom, Eisenhower's No. 1 political adviser in Louisiana, was retained as attorney for Broussard, but defended the case over-the-table, pulled no wires under the table.

Accidentally bursting into a Negro church, she discovered she was the only White person present, sat down and stayed for the entire service. . . . After War Claims Chairman Dan Clary passed away, President Eisenhower was so anxious to replace the other two Democratic commissioners that he wrote a curt letter dismissing them while they were out attending Clary's funeral. . . . The President occasionally drops into the Army-Navy Club for unannounced visits with his old cronies. As a result, the secret service has run a security check on all the club's employees. . . . Mamie Eisenhower has promised to swing the champagne bottle at the launching of the Navy's first atomic sub. . . . Senator McCarthy made a big point of the fact that Brig. Gen. Telford Taylor's service record was marked with a red "flag." This column can report that McCarthy's own record at the Pentagon is similarly "flagged." . . . Georgia's scrupulous Senator Dick Russell, leader of the Southern bloc, is so burned up at Republicans that there's no chance of forming another GOP-Southern Democratic coalition next session. Russell is sore over the Eisenhower administration's handling of the farm problem, its use of FBI files to attack the Democrats, and the GOP drive to eliminate segregation.

The Chemical Corps has built an imitation A-bomb, made of smoke-producing chemicals, white phosphorus grenades, nitro starch, napalm, sand and gravel. When exploded, it shoots a column of smoke into the air with a mushroom-shaped cloud at the top. The idea is to simulate an atomic explosion and add realism to battle maneuvers.

International Situations Not Gastronomical

"Granpappy Sixswallers" (the Bertrand Herald) from long experience knows when to leave a woman and when to leave her alone. The "Sixswallers" were snowbound one day and his Minnie went to the cupboard for some canned fruit for dinner. For a moment he thought the roof had fallen in, but it was just that a jar of molasses had spilled and run all over the cupboard, through boxes, papers and other contents. Following mop-up operations, things had settled back to a fairly normal tempo and Mrs. "Sixswallers" decided to bake a cake—the kind her husband described as "sort of a spice deal, with nuts and things." Something went wrong again, and the cake dribbled over the sides of the pan and down into the broiler. And just about that time, "Granpappy" decided to go out and scoop the walks.

A Clay County father is very definitely in the market for something new in hair restorers. He's only 35, but was beaming proudly at his infant son at Mary Lanning Hospital when a nurses' aide approached and asked: "Which child are you the grandfather of?"

The Papillon Times printed an order of cards that drew numerous curious inquiries for an explanation. The cards read: "Do Not Answer This Phone Call. A Correction

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: In the interest of accuracy, I should like to correct a misquotation in a Dec. 13 story about the student-faculty seminar on college freshmen and their problems.

I was quoted as saying that the problem of freshmen grades and motivations was "a lack of qualified teachers in the small high schools." This particular statement was made by someone else. In my position, I have no contact with small-town high school teachers and therefore could not make any such inferential statement except on merest hearsay (and any such statement would be obviously unfair both to the teachers and the institutions which have trained them.)

My own statement was that, in dealing with students fresh from the various high schools of the state, we find rather striking divergencies in the amount and quality of the students' preparation for college English courses.

Some high schools send us, fairly consistently year after year, notably good students. I raised the questions: "Why is this true? Is there perhaps some way in which the university can help the outstate teachers and school systems to raise the levels of both preparation and student motivation toward those already represented by certain of the schools?"

'Up To Neck' Crosby Promises Assessors Aid

By ARCH DONOVAN
Star Staff Writer

"I don't care how many millions they have or how powerful they are politically," I will do everything in my power to see that all taxpayers of the state are equally assessed," Gov. Robert Crosby assured a meeting of county assessors Thursday.

"I'm in clear up to my neck and will back up the county assessors 100 per cent," he emphasized as the assessors broke into applause. "I realize that some of you have not had support in the past but you will have it from me from now on."

"If your county board needs encouragement to back you in obtaining fair assessments, I will give it either publicly or privately. I am going to drop in on businessmen and see how they are making out their assessment schedules. This may be an unusual thing for the governor to do."

The Governor said that he planned to devote the entire month of March to attempting to get honesty in assessments and that many of the assessors would see him as he personally checked on their progress. He warned that he would insist on assessors performing their sworn duty and would demand removal and appoint a special assessor if they failed.

Evangelistic fervor marked the Governor's talk as he explained that he feared there would be some tax evaders regardless of how strenuous an effort is made for honesty.

"An indispensable ingredient of the campaign will be law enforcement," he said, pointing out that he will seek the aid of county attorneys to prosecute evaders.

"I can and will file complaints if necessary," he assured the assessors. "I don't want the little people who overlook some little item of their possessions."

His campaign will get under way Jan. 15, the Governor said, with a meeting of state employees who will be asked to sign pledge cards that they will make an honest assessment of their property. He said he would insist that they then wear "Operations Honesty" buttons.

He urged the assessors to assist in having similar meetings of county employees. "Why should officials who are sworn to enforce the law not attend and agree to comply with the law?" he inquired.

"I called you here today to become key persons to lead this campaign. That's what I want of you. Get as many as possible to co-operate with you," the Governor continued.

Gov. Crosby said he realized that at assessment time there is no public support for the assessor and that is what he hopes to get through "Operation Honesty."

"We have a long way to go, but a big step in equalized assessment was taken by the state board. About one-third of the real estate is now hovering around lawfulness."

The Governor said in talks to all kinds of groups no one has opposed his statement that assessments are still not at actual valuation. The assessors agreed.

The Governor pointed out to the assessors the inequalities that exist and said only 16 counties have city real estate and farms assessed on an equal basis but that the inequality from county to county is infinitely better. Lack of equalization within the county is now the biggest problem, he said.

The Governor had words of praise for the 21 counties that last year voluntarily complied with the supreme court decision on what assessment laws mean and assessed real estate at 100 per cent.

He explained that tax increases in many places would have taken place regardless of what the board of equalization did because of increased budgets.

The Governor pointed out that personal property shows greatest need of attention but warned that property should not be overvalued any more than it should be undervalued.

Following a short question period, the assessors met with Tax Commissioner George Peterson to discuss administrative problems.

County Welfare Unit Wins Praise

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

The Lancaster County Department of Public Welfare has been "commended for improvement in the standard of work being done."

This commendation by the Nebraska Division of Public Welfare office was given following comparative audits made this year on the county office's case work in old age, blind, and dependent children categories for assistance.

State representatives audited newly-processed cases for a certain period and noted "exceptions" to eligibility, payment or procedure errors or deviations from the state's manual of standards.

A February audit which surveyed 507 cases for a previous period was compared with number and percentage of "exceptions" made to 1,047 cases reviewed in the September audit.

The comparative figures:

	Febr. audit	Sept. audit
Old Age cases	98 or 19.3%	18 or 1.7%
Blind cases	83 or 16.3%	56 or 5.2%
ADC cases	31 or 6.1%	9 or 0.8%

The above figures indicate the considerable improvement is being made in the standard of work being done by the county in all areas," according to State Welfare Director Mayme Stukel, who released the audit.

Case Work

Presenting the audit to the Lancaster County Commissioners, Frank Woods, chief of field services for the state department, explained "Closer supervision of the individual case work and administrative review of new cases should further improve the work being done."

He said that 115 cases were "cleared" by questions during the audit and no "exceptions" were made to these. Questions cleared 11 for eligibility, 59 for payment, and 45 for procedure.

This indicates some carelessness on the part of individual workers or possible need for greater supervision in some areas, he said.

McDermott, who was appointed welfare director in February, had requested the audit of cases prior to his taking office for comparison with new cases handled during his first six months in the post.

Commissioner Chauncey Barney, who heads the county's welfare board, commented that he was pleased with results of the audit. However, this does not mean there will be any let up in the effort to improve further, he added.

The Welfare office currently employs 45 persons, including a director, three supervisors, 25 case workers, and 16 staff workers.

Townsend was chairman of the successful 1953 joint campaign for funds for the Community Chest and Red Cross.

The election held Thursday becomes effective Jan. 1. The annual meeting will be held Jan. 12 at which time board members will be elected and the financial and other reports given.

Townsend reported that the completion of the fall campaign for the Chest and Red Cross showed the latest audited figures amount to $489,004 (subscribed or contributed) from 35,090 subscribers—or $6,738 more than the goal.

Petitions To Retain Lake Circulated

Petitions are being circulated for presentation to the City Council asking for retention of the lake at 14th and Harrison.

The petition asks that instead of filling the lake so a storm sewer can be constructed through it, that the storm sewer be constructed under ground and so made that clear water can be diverted from it into the lake.

One of the circulators, W. F. Steele, 2600 So. 16th, has stated that anyone wishing to sign the petition can do so by phoning him or Mrs. D. A. Parrish, 3-7524, or Mrs. R. L. Telen, 3-4115, who are also circulating petitions.

Besides signing the document, Steele has urged that all citizens who can make an appearance before the Council Monday in behalf of retaining the lake.

Consumers Mart, Inc., Fined $50

Consumers Mart, Inc., of 1025 No. 35th was fined $50 and costs by Lancaster District Judge Herbert Ronin after a plea of nolo contendere to a charge of false or misleading advertising was entered for the defendant firm by Attorney Louis B. Finkelstein.

Withdrawn was a plea of not guilty entered for the defendant firm by Judge Ronin when it failed to appear in answer to a summons on or before Oct. 14. The court accepting the nolo contendere plea found the defendant guilty as charged.

Statements Read

Wagner read statements made to his office by several persons who went to the defendant's place of business in answer to the cited advertisement. One individual stated he was told the sets "had not arrived yet," another was told "his order would be taken, but the sets were not on display."

The county attorney explained to the court that following an investigation of these complaints, he "felt the advertising (by the defendant) had been questionable" and had brought charges. He also stated a number of complaints were of record in his office.

Finkelstein requesting a minimum fine (penalty on charge is $25 to $100) told the court that the defendant's guilt in this case was "very questionable."

Complaints Stop

He claimed that the advertising copy of the company had been straightened out since the filing of the complaint. Wagner said complaints to his office had stopped.

Finkelstein told the court that a reorganization of company personnel had been effected and that the company's president at the time of the complaint's filing is no longer an officer in the firm.

Numerous Road Bids Received

Bids for an estimated $3,826,546 in highway improvement were opened Thursday and required until mid-afternoon to read. State Engineer L. N. Ress said 214 bids were received on the 24 projects.

Highway Department officials were swamped in tabulating the bids and determining the low bidders. They estimated that most of Friday would be required to compare the bids. It was estimated that the largest crowd in three years attended the bid opening.

Hurried inspections indicated that bids were very close and would show a marked decrease in price. On one project one bid was $2 per square yard of concrete lower than has normally been paid.

One contractor explained that because of the open winter work planned for spring has already been completed and that the projects are being sought in order to

In a warning to Nebraska rural electrification systems, John Clema, executive manager of the Nebraska Rural Electrification Association, said the recent softening of the Department of Interior's federal power marketing criteria did not end the threat to the future of public power.

Home from Washington where last week he testified in behalf of the REAs before the Senate Judiciary's Subcommittee on Monopoly and Anti-trust, Clema described the Interior Department's retreat from long term commitments of surplus federal power to private utilities as "more of a change in strategy in behalf of the private utilities than a victory for public power."

"Nothing has happened to warrant us to drop preparations to seek an injunction against the department nor to intercept our plans to solicit the aid of the Nebraska congressional delegation to protect the future of the REA's," he said.

Last week the Interior Department announced it had dropped its intention to supply surplus federal power to private utilities on a non-withdrawal 20 year basis. It said shorter term contracts would be employed to permit preferential customers, the public power agencies, to adjust for growth economically and expeditiously.

The controversial 20-year provision provoked strong resistance among public power supporters who saw in it a force that would hamstring growth while increasing power costs.

"The apparent victory for public power in the reduced contract period is pretty well washed out by noticeably un-emphasized conditions in the new criteria," Clema asserted.

"When the fine print is examined it is significant that discretion will be removed from the public power agencies and taken by the department. That means that where we have been able to claim additional electric power as our growth requires we shall have to take our case to the department and await its pleasure on whether we are to get the power or not. This does not place us in a very encouraging position, appealing to an authority that has openly manifested its sympathy for the private utilities. In short our preferential position has been reduced to a fiction," he added.

The significance of the public power issue, Clema observed, has not sunk deeply enough into Nebraska's attention due principally to urgent concerns over other problems. But he reminded that "Nebraska is wholly a public power state, the most sensitive of all the Midwest states to changes in federal public power policy."

"We are in a game of high stakes. It affects our agricultural future. It equally bears upon the state's industrial growth and diversification. If public power is to take a beating Nebraska will have to go to the whipping post with it. It is high time we all brought the subject home. It may affect Hell's Canyon and other seemingly remote places. But Nebraska is inevitably a direct target," he said.

Pointing up his comment Clema noted that Nebraska REA's comprise a $100 million enterprise. The state has 36 rural systems serving 92,000 customers. They absorb 30 per cent of the Nebraska Public Power System's electric production. While they are successfully meeting their debt schedules the state's systems owe investors some $90 million. Power shortages or increased power costs could be of serious consequence.

Clema estimated that Nebraska is a year away from a power shortage, but explained that "by that time we should be receiving relief from the Missouri Basin in the Dakotas."

While eastern and central sections of Nebraska would not be immediately affected by a changed federal power criteria due to the absence of private utilities Clema said Western Nebraska derives power from the Bureau of Reclamation's Western division of the Missouri Basin where demands for power are both public and private. He reserved his opinion on the effect of the public-private bid for power from the new Dakota federal sources.

Mitchell Retires; Originated Road Designation Plan

The man who originated the present system of numbering and marking Nebraska's state highways has retired.

He is Clay F. Mitchell, an employee of the department for 31 years, who was assistant maintenance engineer at the time of his retirement.

State Engineer L. N. Riss credited Mitchell also with setting up the gasoline distribution system used by the department. The department buys gasoline delivered at six points in the state.

Department transports deliver gasoline from the six points to 172 highway maintenance yards throughout the state.

Riss said a successor to Mitchell will be named soon. Mitchell had been assistant

—Grand Island— Ammo Ban Violation Is Charged

2 Truckers Arrested For Explosive Hauling

GRAND ISLAND, Neb. (AP)—Two truck drivers were arrested Thursday morning and charged with violation of a city ordinance against hauling ammunition through Grand Island.

The trucks, leased to the Riss Trucking Co., Kansas City, were driven by William L. Harris and George C. Anderson, both of Joplin, Mo.

Bond Posted

The trucks were en route from Burlington, Iowa, and to Avondale, Colo.

Each of the drivers posted a $50 bond. A tentative hearing was set for Jan. 16.

The drivers contracted the trucking firm and it was said a local attorney would be employed in time to defend them at the hearing.

The ordinance was passed late in October after accidents involving ammunition trucks at Axtell and Omaha.

Christ's Message Timely, Timeless, NWU Group Told

Nebraska Wesleyan University students Thursday were told that "The message which Christ brought was timely in his day, and it is timely in that it meets the needs of people today."

The speaker was Duane Lipe, Waverly senior, who spoke at the third in a series of four student-sponsored Christmas matins.

"Christ's message is a message important to all people in the world—the rich and poor, the white and black, Christian and non-Christian," Lipe pointed out.

"But because of the forces of greed, prejudice, hate and ignorance in our personal lives and in the world, man has not accepted and fully applied Jesus' teachings."

Faye Martens, Chappell sophomore, was in charge of the service. Ray Kim, Hallam junior, will conclude the series at 7:15 Friday morning when he discusses "The Priceless Gift," assisted by Rosemary Lucke, Lincoln senior.

State's Highway Traffic Heavier

Traffic on Nebraska highways last month was four per cent heavier than in November, 1952.

The increase for the first 11 months of 1953 was three per cent.

The average daily vehicle count was highest on U.S. No. 6 between Omaha and Lincoln—4,407 for the 24-hour period.

U.S. 77 and 275 north of Fremont was next at 4,246.

Others: U.S. 30 at Elm Creek, 2,550; U.S. 26 at Scottsbluff, 2,494; U.S. 73-75 at Union, 2,597; U.S. 20 at South Sioux City, 2,794.

Monoxide Fumes Kill Family Of 4

Gas Stove, Heater Exhausted Oxygen
OMAHA (AP)—A physician making morning professional calls found a family of four and their pet cat dead of carbon monoxide fumes Thursday.
Found by Dr. Theodore Drdla in a three-room house were Eulalia Arellano, 39; his wife, Concepcion, 39, and their children, Magdalena, 11, and Gloria, 8.
Dr. Drdla had been treating the children for influenza. It appeared that death came to the four early Thursday in the bedroom of the small house.
The evident cause of death was a gas stove and a floor-type space heater attached to it by a copper wire. Both appliances had been turned on and it appeared the four had exhausted oxygen in the house.
The children were found in one bed, Mrs. Arellano in another. Arellano's fully clothed body was found at the foot of the children's bed and partly under a Christmas tree.
Dr. Drdla said he had seen the family Wednesday night. At the time, he said, Arellano, a railroad employee, had asked if he should stay home from work to look after them.
The doctor found the door to the house unlocked when he called Thursday morning.

13 Pct. Hike In Meat Processing Seen For Nebraska

OMAHA (AP)—Nebraska, fourth largest meat producing state in the country, is expected to show a 13 per cent increase in total meat processed over last year, the president of the Cudahy Packing Co. said Thursday.

Nebraska is producing enough meat to feed not only its own record population of 1,300,000, but also the people of 11 other states and the District of Columbia, said Louis F. Long in a statement.

These facts are based on figures compiled by the American Meat Institute of which Long is a board member.

"We can't emphasize too strongly the important role that Nebraskans play in feeding the nation," the statement continued.

"Nebraska meat packing concerns processed slightly more than a billion pounds of meat during the first 10 months of this year."

More Beef Handled

On the basis of the national per capita meat consumption rate, this provided enough meat to feed about 8½ million persons, equivalent to the population of Nevada, Wyoming, Delaware, Vermont, New Hampshire, Montana, North Dakota, New Mexico, Utah, Arizona, Idaho, Washington, D. C., and Nebraska he said.

He noted that a 32 per cent increase in the beef output of Nebraska's meat packing plants more than compensated for the

Mrs. James Copple, Bancroft, Is Dead

BANCROFT, Neb. — Funeral services were held here for Mrs. James O. Copple, last surviving charter member of the Amethyst Chapter, No. 162, Order of the Eastern Star, at Bancroft.

Her parents homesteaded in Nebraska when she was six years old. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. U. S. Ross of Lyons, Mrs. John McCarthy of Grand Island and Mrs. Edna Peterson of Vista, Calif.; three sons, Charles of Rosalie, Dr. D. E. of Pleasantville, N. Y., and Edwin of Chicago.

16 per cent decline in the amount of pork handled, due to a smaller spring pig crop.

During the first 10 months of this year, 706,955,700 pounds of beef were processed in the state, compared with 535,536,100 pounds for the same period last year, Long said. "Our state's pork production fell from 364,364,560 pounds to 306,590,460 during the same period."

Thus, Long said, the boost in beef production was primarily responsible for total meat processing advancing to 1,071,493,700 pounds for the January-October period this year — 121,661,350 pounds above the same period of 1952.

Saw Jet Crash

Charles Williams, who farms four miles southeast of Crete, was one of the witnesses to the crash of a Lincoln based Air National Guard F-80 jet which claimed the life of Fritz Craig Jr. of Lincoln. The plane went down and exploded just a few hundred yards away from where Williams was standing. Williams was standing next to his neighbor, Otto Kvasnicka, were the first two men at the scene of the fatal accident. (Star Staff Photo)

Average In Corn Stays 28 Bushels

By the Associated Press
The Agriculture Department took the year's final look at Nebraska crops Thursday, stuck with its 28 bushel-per-acre estimate on corn but trimmed a half bushel per acre from the bumper wheat tally.

Other revisions lowered somewhat the estimated yields on oats and sorghum grain but raised the figures on dry beans.

The final figure on corn is 284,176,000 bushels, from 2,292,000 acres for harvest, or 28 per acre.

Thus the drought-hit crop fails to come up to last year's bumper one, and falls short of the 10-year average, but compares fairly favorably when checked against crop yield records dating back to 1866.

37 Bushel Average
Last year's crop output was 261,960,000 bushels or 37 per acre. The 10-year average, 1942 through 1951, is 226,530,000 bushels or 29.6 per acre.

The final estimate on winter wheat is 22.5 bushels per acre from 3,778,000 acres for harvest or a total of 85,005,000 bushels. The last previous estimate was for a 23-bushel crop or total production of 87,883,000 bushels.

The winter wheat crop still qualifies for the "bumper" title and gains that rating despite the shaky start it got last fall.

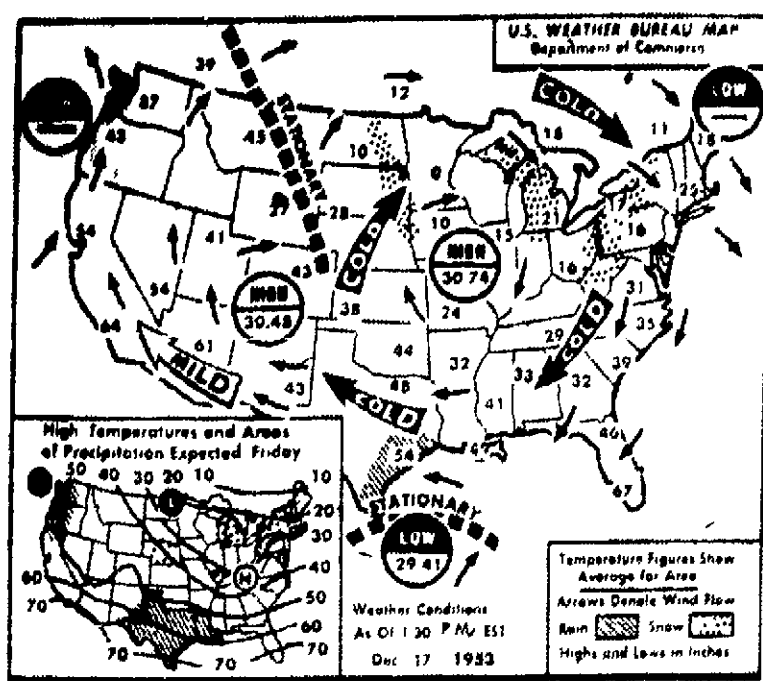

The 22.5 bushel average has been topped only four times in this century and the total yield is the fourth largest recorded in this century.

Nebraska had a 24 bushel yield in 1942, and 23 bushel yields in 1906, 1945 and 1946.

Last year's output was a record 97,695,000 bushels or 22.5 per acre and the 10-year average, 1942 through 1951, was 71,294,000 bushels or 19.6 per acre.

For all wheat, the Nebraska 1953 estimate is 22.3 per acre or a total of 85,980,000 bushels.

Other new Nebraska estimates,

Former Columbus Postmaster Dies
COLUMBUS, Neb. (AP)—Funeral services will be held here Saturday forenoon for Fred A. Scofield, 89, former postmaster of Columbus.

Scofield, an active Republican and postmaster from 1922 to 1934, died in an Oklahoma City hospital after a short illness.

He had suffered a broken hip in a fall last Thursday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Fred C. Schmocker, in Oklahoma City.

OMAHA (AP)—Rep. Claire Engle (R-Calif.), a lieutenant colonel in the Air Force reserve, was at Offutt Air Force Base here for a briefing from Strategic Air Command officers.

Engle, a member of the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee, left Thursday to return to Washington.

Truck Crash Fatal To One; Four Injured

WALLACE, Neb. (AP)—Dennis Dringman, 25, of Sutherland, Neb., was killed instantly when the pickup truck he was driving was in collision with a farm truck on Highway 24 about 4 1/2 miles west of Wallace.

Two passengers in Dringman's truck were hospitalized at Grant. They are Ed Bailey, 25, Durbin, Neb., and Dorothy Applegate, 16, Ogallala. Bailey suffered possible internal injuries but the girl was less seriously hurt.

327th Fatality
Dringman's death raised to 327 the total of Nebraska highway deaths this year. Last year at this time there had been 313.

The second truck was driven by Everett Martin of Elsie. He and his passenger Kyle Hepler of Elsie, suffered cuts and bruises, were treated at a Sutherland hospital and then released.

State Safety Patrolman Hack Carlson, who investigated, said it was hard to tell exactly what happened. The road is gravel.

Dringman is survived by his wife and a two-year-old daughter.

New Rural School Completion Nears; Plan Dedication

EDGAR, Neb. (Lincoln Star Special)—The new Pioneer school house, District No. 42, Nuckolls County, located three miles south of Edgar, is expected to be completed Friday.

The white frame one-story building, modern in every respect, measures 28x48 feet. The floor plan follows recommendations of the State Department of Education.

Miss Irene Fritze, teacher, and her 18 pupils will present their Christmas program next Monday to residents of the district.

At an early date in January, open house will be held to enable residents of this vicinity to see the new building. The newly formed District No. 42 is a combination of parts of four districts.

Present open house plans call for an informal afternoon with "orn" of the district serving as hostess. In the evening, the formal dedication will be held with State Superintendent F. B. Decker as the featured speaker.

Rulo Flier Hurt Only Slightly In Alaskan Mishap

KODIAK, Alaska (AP)—A Nebraskan was among 10 crew members of a Navy patrol bomber who escaped with minor injuries when the plane skidded on ice covered runway into a hillside, tearing off the right wing and bursting into flames.

He was Joe Zbolanek, 20, son of Mrs. Mabel Zbolanek of Rulo. Navy officials said the accident occurred as the plane was attempting a landing. They said the pilot tried to slow the skidding bomber by reversing the propellers but it rolled into the hillside.

Businessmen's Club Is Planned For Utica

UTICA, Neb. — Organization of a businessmen's club for Utica is now under way. Those persons interested in such a group will meet Jan. 11.

AFBF Urges Foreign Crop Surplus Sale

CHICAGO (INS)—The American Farm Bureau Federation proposed Thursday that the United States sell on the open world market an estimated four billion dollars worth of surplus farm commodities now in storage.

The federation also reaffirmed its stand against high rigid government price supports on crops, and urged a program to develop more trade with free nations of the world.

Resolutions of these matters were part of an 82-page report by the AFBF resolutions committee approved by 158 voting delegates on the final day of the five-day convention.

Administration Slap

The federation took a slap at the Eisenhower administration in recommending disposal of surplus goods on the world market. The resolution declared that "The executive branch of the Federal Government and especially the Commodity Credit Corporation should not stand idly by and watch foreign outlets shrink when supplies are available in the United States."

The federation, in continuing its endorsement of flexible price supports, charged that continuation of war-time price support levels is largely responsible for burdensome surpluses of some commodities.

It urged that temporary provisions of law requiring 90 per cent of parity price support, be allowed to expire at the end of 1954, and that the variable price support provisions of the Agricultural Act of 1949 be put into effect.

Concession Seen

The AFBF, largest farm group in the nation, proposed an amendment to the 1949 act to allow 80 per cent of parity supports the first year that marketing quotas are in effect after a non-quota year.

But thereafter, the level of price supports would be determined by "producers response in bringing supplies in line with effective demand."

The amendment was viewed as a concession to Southern tobacco, cotton and peanut growers, who have demanded straight 80 per cent of parity and appear willing to accept marketing quotas and acreage allotments to get them.

Just A More-Of-Everything Morning

WE'll admit that although Christmas is really the big day next week, we have a large red circle around another date, too—Monday—Dec. 21—the shortest day in 1953—Our interest in that particular date, naturally, has to do with the fact that from then on the days grow longer—and spring doesn't seem so far away—

But with all of the news we have on hand at the moment—news that involves more holiday parties—more courtesies for December brides—more of everything social, really—we have filed our enthusiasm for spring until another day—

THINK it might be well to begin the morning's work with the guest list—Just learned that Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt O. Smith of Akron, O., plan to be in town for the holidays—The Smiths may take just one day for the journey from Akron—or they may decide on two—They're more or less paraphrasing an old bit of poetry everyone knows—"one if by air—and two if by land"—The whole thing hinges on the weather, and the Smiths have covered all contingencies by making both plane and train reservations—if by air, Mr. and Mrs. Smith will arrive next Tuesday—if by land—on Wednesday.

ARRIVING from Watertown, S.D. next Tuesday will be Mrs. Walter Stover and Mrs. Andrew Kopperud who are to be the holiday house guests of their son and daughter-in-law—and vice-versa—Dr. and Mrs. Lee Stover.

Dr. and Mrs. Stover also will have as their guests on Christmas Day Mrs. Stover's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Ramsey Jr. and Mr. Ramsey's mother, Mrs. William Ramsey, who will come from Omaha.

FROM the west coast—Los Angeles—next Wednesday will come Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stockstill who are to be the holiday guests of Mr. Stockstill's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. I. Stockstill. Completing the family group for the Christmas week-end will be Mr. and Mrs. Stockstill's son-in-law and daughter,

Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Gallo-way Jr., of Red Oak, Ia.

UNDERSTAND that Mr. and Mrs. John Spear of Kearney will follow a family tradition and spend the holidays in Lincoln as the guests of Mr. S. Spear's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hoppe—

AND mention of the Hoppes reminds us that the Hoppe foursome—Mr. and Mrs. Hoppe, their son, Hal, and daughter, Sherry—spent some time in California this month—Mr. Hoppe and Sherry returned home last week-end, but Mrs. Hoppe and Hal lingered on the coast until yesterday when they returned home.

HEARD, too, that Miss Sally Cattle was in Lincoln briefly last evening—Miss Cattle planned in from Athens, O., where she is a member of Ohio University faculty, but went on to Seward where she will be the holiday guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cattle.

NO BETTER time than now to open the bride's book and take a look at what's what in the courtly line for the December brides—

Just learned that Dr. and Mrs. Norman Carlson will be an informal dinner host and hostess next Tuesday evening at their home when they entertain in courtesy to Miss Jane Calhoun and Walt Weaver whose marriage will take place on Tuesday, Dec. 29. The guest list will include only the immediate members of the families.

AND WHILE we have Tuesday's calendar at hand we may as well tell you that Mrs. John Yeager will be a coffee hostess on Tuesday morning when she honors Miss Sally Mallory, whose marriage to Lieut. Douglas Dale will be solemnized a week from Sunday. Miss Mallory will be presented with a one-gift shower.

ALSO on Tuesday's calendar is the luncheon for which Mrs. J. M. Clarke will be hostess at the Lincoln Country Club when she pays prenuptial courtesy to Miss Jean Clark who is to marry Donald Korff at a high noon ceremony on Saturday, Dec. 26. The soon-to-be bride will receive a miscellaneous shower.

BUT the current week is a busy one for Miss Clark, too—On Thursday evening, for example, the bride-elect was the incentive for a dessert supper and a miscellaneous shower for which Mrs. G. I. Clark was hostess at her home—And today the bride-elect will again be an honoree when Mrs. Wheaton Battey and her daughter, Mrs. Harold Andersen are luncheon hostesses at the Lincoln Country Club.

THIS evening Mrs. F. J. Vogel-sang, Mrs. Leo Bischof and Mrs. James Mahoney will compliment Miss Clark when they are hostesses at a dessert supper and shower at the home of Mrs. Mahoney.

THE Saturday party for Miss Clark is a 10:30 o'clock brunch for which Mrs. Ed Dosek and Mrs. Paul Heidrick will be hostesses when they honor the bride-to-be at the home of Mrs. Dosek. The honoree will be presented with a personal shower—

THE WEEK'S series of parties for Miss Clark ends on Sunday which is involved in two parties for the bride-to-be—The first one is a 12 o'clock breakfast at the Lincoln Country club to which Mrs. L. M. Kalin has invited 12 guests. Miss Clark will be given a miscellaneous shower.

The second Sunday affair, honoring both Miss Clark and her fiancé, is the 5 o'clock to 7 o'clock hors d'oeuvres party when members of the bridal party will be entertained by Miss Jeanne Hyland.

A BRIDE-ELECT from Beatrice, Miss Betsy Thomsen, whose marriage to Kenneth Powell of Omaha will be solemnized on Monday, Dec. 28, came to Lincoln Thursday to be the honoree at a luncheon at the University Club for which Mrs. Robert Stein and Mrs. Carl Stein were hostesses. Accompanying Miss Thomsen to Lincoln for the party were her mother, Mrs. Jack Thomsen, and her grandmother, Mrs. Harry Dempster.

THE WEEK-END includes activity other than that for the brides-to-be, however—On Friday evening, for instance, the members of the Revelers Club will have their Christmas party—a dinner dance—in the ballroom of Hotel Cornhusker. Included on the committee arranging the party details are Mr. and Mrs. Don Dixon, chairman; Mr. and Mrs. Reese Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wager, Mr. and Mrs. James B. Harley, and Mr. and Mrs. George McCoy.

The guest couples at the dinner dance will be Captain and Mrs. Harold J. Murray, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Heilig, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Putney, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie I. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Duane Lake, Mr. and Mrs. Jon Grasmick, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Bruce, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene W. Pester, Dr. and Mrs. George Larson, and Dr. and Mrs. Clarence Brott of Beatrice.

THE Holiday Club has chosen Saturday evening to dine and dance at Hotel Cornhusker, and its guest list will include Mr. and Mrs. Robert Van Der-vort, Mrs. Jane Foster Gavin of Evanston, Ill., Ted Butterfield, Mr. and Mrs. Clancy Reams of Omaha; Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Minier, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wake, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Spangler, Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Sides, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Swanson, and Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Holland.

The arrangements committee for the party is composed of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Walt, chairman; Mr. and Mrs. Ellyer Hall Davis, Mr. and Mrs. J. Burks Harley, Dr. and Mrs. John Marshall Neely, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Olson.

Just Between Us

—William A. Fredericks, Washington, D.C.'s famous Landscape Architect and Horticulturist, annually displays about 2500 Christmas poinsettias in the National Botanical Gardens. He offers these tips for keeping poinsettias: "Keep the room temperature on the cool side—put the plant in the coolest place at night—watering every other day is ample." Also, "Don't throw out the plant when the leaves have dropped, but set it in a cool, dark basement. About April cut it back to a height of six or seven inches, water it and place it in a sunny window. It will bloom again."

—In Eureka, Montana, it's always Christmas. The town's chief industry—logging Christmas trees. It is known as the Christmas Tree Capital of the World and trees move to destinations all over America from this little town high in the Rockies.

—and in one of the well-known jewelry salons can be found a solid gold Cadillac in which you can keep your car key. This "practical" little gift with diamond headlights and ruby taillights can be had for only $400.00. According to the manager, owning a Cadillac is not necessary to purchase this gift.

—and a resourceful friend has dreamed up a new idea for chewing gum. She is making different colored wrappers, covered with sequins, for each package. Just the thing for milady's purse!

The next meeting of the club will be held Jan. 21, at the home of Mrs. Ivan Armstrong.

Classmates Plan Reunion

A group of former Lincoln High School classmates of the class of 1951 will hold a reunion Friday evening when they meet for a 6:30 o'clock pot luck supper. The supper, to be held at the home of Miss Margaret Moore, will be followed by an informal evening.

Included among the group will be Miss Joan Knapp, Miss Joan Cunningham, Miss Genie Orput, Miss Anna Marie Obermeyer, Miss Natalie Katt, Miss Sharon Kreuch, Miss Lynn Turner, Miss Winifred Stolz, Miss Peggy Dewey, Miss Joyce Lease and Miss Florence Maser.

Wednesday Club Exchanges Gifts

Mrs. Lloyd Behrens was a luncheon hostess to the members of her Wednesday Club on Dec. 16. A Christmas party was held, and the feature of the afternoon was a gift exchange at which this year's secret pals were revealed.

The January meeting will be held the 19th day of that month at the home of Mrs. Elmer Barnhill.

SIFT TOGETHER 2 1/2 cups sifted PILLBURY'S BEST ENRICHED FLOUR, 1/2 cup sifted BAKING POWDER, 1/2 teaspoon SALT and 1 1/2 cups SUGAR into mixing bowl.

ADD 1/2 cups SHORTENING, 1 1/2 cups MILK and 1 teaspoon VANILLA.

BEAT For 1 1/2 minutes, 150 strokes per minute, until batter is well blended. With electric mixer blend at low speed, then beat at medium speed for 1 1/2 minutes.

ADD 2 cups EGG WHITES (4 large or 2 medium) unbeaten.

BEAT For 1 1/2 minutes.

SPREAD One-fourth of batter carefully into each unlined pan, using about half of mixture. Sprinkle with the grated chocolate (half in each pan). Spoon remaining batter into pans, spreading carefully so chocolate is not disturbed.

Wilson Hints Disagreement On Dulles' Unity Warning

WASHINGTON (INS)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson returned Thursday from the North Atlantic Alliance meeting in Paris and Wilson indicated disagreement with Dulles' "unity or suicide" warning to France.

The Defense Secretary was asked for comment on Dulles' Paris statement that France must quickly ratify the European De-

Chemist Admits Poisoning Of Parents With Cyanide

NEW YORK (INS)—A young chemist who in his most trying moments quotes poetry assertively confessed late Thursday that he poisoned his parents with lethal champagne cocktails laced with cyanide.

Bronx District Attorney George De Luca announced that Harlow Fraden blamed his parents' allusion to his homosexuality for the crime.

De Luca quoted the bespectacled 22-year-old as saying he did not poison Dr. and Mrs. William Fraden last Aug. 19 for money, the motive attributed to him by his admitted accomplice, Dennis Wepman, 20.

De Luca said Fraden finally admitted the double slaying—first listed as suicides—after more than 24 hours of questioning.

Help Admitted

The district attorney said he will present the case to the Grand Jury Friday and seek an indictment for first degree murder.

Wepman has admitted helping plot the double murder and standing outside the apartment while Fraden mixed the lethal cocktails.

The two youths had lived together for a while before their close relationship ended in a bloody brawl Wednesday morning in Fraden's room in the swank St. Moritz Hotel.

Wepman, a self-styled "free-lance writer" and Fraden both stared sullenly through horn-rimmed glasses as they were charged in Bronx Magistrate's Court with the murder of Dr. and Mrs. William Fraden last Aug. 19.

Dulles said he was "encouraged" at the results of the Paris meeting and made it plain that he did not believe any problem had been created by what some French spokesmen called a "brutal" warning.

Sharing Favored

The Secretary of State told newsmen: "We had a very satisfactory meeting with friends. I believe we are on a steady basis which will enable us to maintain this very important structure for peace, compatible with our own economic welfare."

Wilson made no comment on his own Paris declaration that the Eisenhower administration, if Congress agrees, favors sharing some atomic information with North Atlantic allies and is willing to make certain secret weapons available to U. S. allies.

Mr. Eisenhower told his news conference Wednesday that no decision had been reached on the matter referred to by Wilson. The President emphasized that the U. S. would preserve as a top secret the "know-how" of atomic weapons production.

Dulles and Wilson were in agreement that the Paris meeting was "successful." Wilson said: "I was greatly impressed by the obvious efforts on the part of everyone to make the meeting a success."

Marshall, former defense secretary and secretary of state and wartime Army chief of staff, came home from Oslo, Norway, where he was awarded the Nobel Prize in recognition of his authorship of the Marshall Plan for postwar European recovery through U. S. aid.

Liner Crosses Most Of Atlantic Without Rudder

OSLO, Norway (AP)—The Norwegian America liner Stavangerfjord—the first big passenger ship known to have crossed the greater part of the Atlantic without a rudder—arrived in Oslo Thursday night. She came in only two days behind schedule.

Capt. Osif Bjoernstad, a sailor since 1914, described the rudderless crossing as "the worst experience I've ever had at sea."

The Stavangerfjord lost her rudder in a hurricane in the evening hours of Dec. 8 about 1,000 miles—or three days—out of New York where the "Christmas crossing" started.

Since then she travelled 2,050 miles in nine days without a rudder, steering with her twin screws. By this technique one screw alternately is used for giving her forward speed, the other for navigation.

NOTHING LIKE IT BEFORE! SWIFT'S NEW BROWN 'N SERVE SAUSAGE!

YOU EAT ALL YOU BUY!
 SAVE MONEY! NO SHRINK!

REGULAR SAUSAGE
 Shrinks About Half
 in Cooking

BROWN 'N SERVE
 Is Pre-cooked
 to Avoid Shrinkage,
 Waste and Grease

You pay only for the juicy, lean meat in Swift's Brown 'N Serve Sausage. In tests made with Brown 'N Serve and ordinary sausage, Swift's new three-minute sausage proved by far to be the most economical buy. 1-lb. of regular sausage often cooks down to less than 1/2-lb. Leaves behind 1/2-lb. of waste fat. 1/2-lb. of Brown 'N Serve stays about 1/2-lb. There's no waste fat, no shrink. Thus 1/2-lb. of Brown 'N Serve, while costing less, gives more meat to eat than a whole pound of regular sausage.

READY IN A JIFFY!

Swift & Company announced here today the perfection of a completely new and different kind of sausage which cuts twenty full minutes or more from sausage cooking time. Nothing like pre-cooked Brown 'N Serve has ever before appeared on the market. Beginning today it can be bought in leading food stores in this area.

Regular sausage takes from twenty-three to thirty minutes' cooking time. New Swift's Premium Brown 'N Serve Sausage is ready to eat in just three minutes. All the housewife does is brown 'n serve for the world's fastest sausage meal.

Swift's Premium Brown 'N Serve Sausage is made possible by a new process which correctly and scientifically pre-cooks the sausage meat. The problem of overcooked or underdone sausage is completely eliminated.

This amazing, three-minute sausage promises to make hurry-up breakfasts and quick sausage suppers easier and more convenient for the homemaker than ever before.

The housewife no longer needs to get up on weekday mornings twenty minutes early in order to serve her family a fresh sausage breakfast. She simply awakes at the time she would ordinarily get up to prepare a quick workday breakfast, and in the time it takes her to set the table, or soft boil an egg, or make toast, Swift's Brown 'N Serve is deliciously browned and ready to eat.

Pre-cooking "Fixes" Freshness Imported Spices Add Flavor

Swift's Brown 'N Serve Sausage has the flavor of imported, natural spices, plus a fresher good sausage taste than it has ever before been possible to bring you. At the moment of freshest flavor, the succulent links are scientifically pre-cooked by Swift. This pre-cooking protects Brown 'N Serve's fine, old-time sausage flavor right to your table. The freshness is cooked right in. Here, indeed is an unusual taste treat.

This morning women their grocery stores the first to purchase Swift's Brown 'N Serve Sausage. Re half is pre-shrinkage.

Only selected cuts of pure pork - succulent, tasty links. The flavor is outstanding because Swift's experts pre-cook the pure, pork

St. Louis, Kentucky To Meet In Basketball's 'Game Of The Week'

By ED WILKS
ST. LOUIS (AP)—Kentucky, the team with national prestige, and unranked St. Louis University, the club with the uncanny ability for whittling the Wildcats down to size, resume their short but red-hot rivalry here tonight in the basketball game of the week.

The game, long a sellout, will be the fourth meeting between the two teams. And the Billikens of St. Louis have a perfect 3-for-3 record against the Wildcats.

Despite the fact Kentucky is ranked No. 2 in the nation behind Indiana in the Associated Press poll, St. Louis has played its home court advantage and its penchant for upsetting the Wildcats to gain a slight edge in pre-game speculation.

Also with the Billikens is the jinx held by Coach Eddie Hickey over Coach Adolph Rupp, the Baron of Kentucky. Now in his 24th year at Kentucky, Rupp has piled up an amazing 852 winning percentage. Yet he's lost five of seven meetings with Hickey, the little man of basketball who chalks offense and defensive changes on the sidelines during time outs.

Since coming to St. Louis in 1947, Hickey's Bills have been downright disrespectful toward the Wildcats. In the 1948-49 season they stopped Kentucky 42-40, for the Sugar Bowl title.

Kentucky went on to win the NCAA title with a 32-2 record. In 1950-51, St. Louis had to go overtime, but again defeated Kentucky in the Sugar Bowl, 43-42. The Wildcats again were coach at Creighton he split even in four games with Kentucky. This year the Wildcats again are riding high, defeating Temple, Xavier and Wake Forest with ease. St. Louis, meanwhile, has won three of four defeating a service team, Alabama, Drake and Canisius while losing, 84-83, to Ohio State.

Peru led all the way and boasted a 17-11 advantage at the end of the first quarter.

In addition to the scoring punch and ball-handling of Bokman and Meeker, the rebounding of Al Lowe and Ron Wagner proved the difference between the two teams.

Three Capital City Quintets Play Tonight

Capital City high school basketball teams play three games tonight in the first half of a five-game fling before the Christmas holidays.

Three schools—Lincoln High, Northeast and Cathedral—are involved in tonight's play.

Cathedral plays Columbus St. Bonaventure at Irving in an 8 p.m. game. It is the home opener for the twice-victorious Bluebirds of Vince Aldrich.

Lincoln High goes to Grand Island tonight for the first of two week-end games on the road. Northeast plays at Columbus in the road opener for the Rockets.

Columbus has a 1-1 record compared to the Rockets' 1-2 slate. The Discoverers lost to York in their opener but came back to beat Fairbury by two points.

St. Bonaventure opens its season at Cathedral tonight. Cletus Fischer's Shamrock five will face a team that has beaten Norfolk Sacred Heart and Seward Concordia.

The Grand Island-Lincoln game should provide the first real fireworks of the season for the Links, who have polished off Scottsbluff, Fremont and Norfolk.

Bob Gregory's Islanders appear to be potent with four lettermen around. They have licked Lexington (59-43) and Nebraska City (56-32).

Islander lettermen George Dunham, Henry Mueller, Darrell Pinkston and Bob Schuyler may receive help from the two tall men on the squad, junior center Walt Switzer and soph. Pivot Larry Feaster, both 6-3.

York Game At Aurora Slate's Best

By BILL FITZGERALD
Star Sports Staff Member
Prep basketball in Nebraska moves into a heavy night Friday before a general sojourn which begins next week and carries through the holidays.

Many games are listed, some important as traditional rivalries, others big because they are tests of promising clubs.

One of the best may be Seward at Beatrice. The Class B visitors have won three straight. They meet an Orange-man squad which has split two games.

York at Aurora. The Ducks seek a third triumph against the short Huskies in a Central Ten contest.

Clarkson at St. Edward. Seeking its sixth straight win, the visiting Clarkson squad meets a team defeated by Central City in its last game.

Crete at David City. A green Scout team has lost two close games, should be tough in this Central Ten meeting.

Hebron at Wymore. Hebron rolled in the opener, meets a taller Wymore club.

Other games Friday:
Adams at Plymouth
Albion at Newman Grove
Tekamah at Ashland

Yank Stadium Sold For $6,500,000

NEW YORK (AP)—Yankee Stadium is a ball park dedicated to the idea that the home rule shall prevail.

Thursday the stadium, and the approximate four acres of land it encompasses, was sold for $6,500,000. That's a far cry from the $24 and a handful of beads the early Dutch settlers paid the Indians for the 1,433 acres of Manhattan Island in the early days.

Dan R. Topping and Del E. Webb, co-owners of the Yankees, sold the stadium and the Blues Stadium in Kansas City, home of their No. 1 farm club, to Arnold Johnson of Chicago and Associates for $6,500,000. Johnson, in turn, sold the land under the stadium to the Knights of Columbus for an unstated sum.

The Johnson corporation immediately leased back the land from the K. of C. for a term of 70 years, with options, and Webb and Topping leased the stadium properties from Johnson for long terms.

Thus the occupancy of the ball parks will not be disturbed and Webb and Topping said there will be no change in the operations of the Yankees or the stadium.

Yankee Stadium is built on the site of an old Indian trading post in the Bronx, just across the Harlem River from Manhattan Island. It was completed in 1923 and immediately called "The House that Ruth Built" in honor of the great home run king, Babe Ruth. Cynics called it the "House that was built for Ruth" because of its short (296 feet) right field boundary which slopes gently to center field. The left field corner is 301 feet from home and dead center is 481 feet away.

Home plate, some historians say, is laid on the spot where an old blockhouse fort once stood and from where cannons were fired at the Indians.

Later tribes of Indians came regularly from Cleveland to get regular shellings from the Bronx Bombers of baseball fame.

Mrs. Price 2nd State 'Idea' Winner

Share Slack Personnel Plan Tops

Second winner of the state employees contest on suggestions for improvement of state government was announced Thursday by Gov. Robert Crosby as Mrs. Marguerite Price, budget supervisor for the Legislative Council budget committee.

The governor sponsored the four contests of which the winner receives $25 from him. Sen. Otto Liebers is chairman of the selection committee assisted by James Deising, administrative assistant to the Governor and Dr. Roger Shumate, director of research for the Legislative Council.

The first suggestion award was won by Mrs. Loretta Walker, a sister of Mrs. Price, both of whom are veteran state employees.

Sen. Liebers reported that many fine suggestions were submitted and that the committee recommended the other suggestions be given serious consideration even though they could not be given the award.

Mrs. Price's winning suggestion was establishment of a "personnel pool and directory" from which departments could draw for temporary help during rush periods from other departments having a slack period. It was pointed out it would be especially valuable during vacation periods.

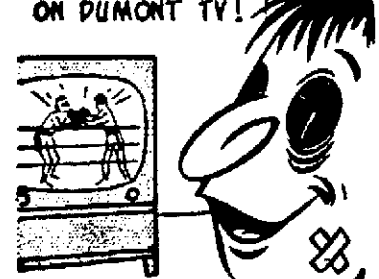

The governor emphasized that the administrative details will have to be worked out before the suggestion can be used. He explained that no jobs would be jeopardized but that it would permit economies in many departments through elimination of employing extra help.

There will be no indiscriminate transfers of employees from department to department the Governor said but employees with government experience will be more valuable in meeting rush situations than extra temporary help.

Ardath 'Drank Continually,' Witness Testifies

OMAHA (AP)—A Tucson housewife said in District Court Thursday that Ardath Kuykendall "drank continually" despite her husband's efforts to make her stop.

The witness was Mrs. Ruth Woolley, who appeared as a defense witness for Joseph Kuykendall, 34, Arizona, who is charged with first degree murder in the death of his bride, Ardath (Nonie) Kuykendall, 30, last June 18.

Kuykendall's attorneys have contended his wife drank excessively, was addicted to drugs and that her death was the result of an accidental fall while intoxicated.

Mrs. Woolley described four occasions dating from the time she first met Mrs. Kuykendall in the middle of April of this year until the Kuykendalls left for Omaha when she said Mrs. Kuykendall was intoxicated.

At one point she said that "she (Nonie) was always intoxicated. Truthfully, I have never seen her any other way."

On cross-examination Chief Deputy County Attorney Robert McGowan asked Mrs. Woolley if she "hated" Ardath Kuykendall. Mrs. Woolley said she liked Mrs. Kuykendall "when she was normal." When McGowan reminded her that she testified she never saw Mrs. Kuykendall when she was not intoxicated, Mrs. Woolley said "just once."

She said Nonie was a "very nice—very interesting person" when she wasn't drinking, but she talked a lot was domineering and almost abusive when drinking.

Mrs. Woolley said during questioning by Defense Attorney Hugh J. Boyle that on occasions when Nonie drank heavily she ate "very little" despite the efforts of her husband and others to persuade her to eat.

Earlier C. P. Healey, and Jack Farrell, a licensed embalmers reviewed what had happened at the postmortem examination performed on Mrs. Kuykendall. Dr. James M. Brown, pathologist who performed the autopsy, had attributed the death to a skull fracture and brain hemorrhage.

Both Healey and Farrell testified that during the postmortem examination they had observed a small hole or rupture about the size of one's little finger or the rubber tip on a lead pencil in the back of Mrs. Kuykendall's heart. Dr. Brown had testified there was no such rupture.

Healey said the pericardium or sac covering the heart appeared intact and Farrell testified there was no wound in the back of the body.

VFW, Auxiliary Entertain Patients At Vets Hospital

Approximately 30 members of the VFW and VFW Auxiliary entertained patients at the Lincoln Veterans Hospital at the annual Christmas party Thursday night. The VFW gave a gift to each patient and the auxiliary presented each with a one-dollar bill. Nathan Grossman was chairman of the event.

The Nebraska Department of the VFW sponsors Christmas parties in each of the state's three Veterans Hospitals—Lincoln, Grand Island and Omaha.

Liquor Inspector Schlosser, Scribner, Retires; Honored By Fellow Workers

State Liquor Inspector Adolph Schlosser of Scribner, dean of the inspectors, was honored by fellow workers Thursday night as his retirement, after serving since the establishment of the state liquor commission in 1935, was announced.

Commissioner Nathan Pont on behalf of the commission members and inspectors presented him with a plaque. Prior to becoming an inspector, Schlosser was in the jewelry business at Dodge for 20 years.

Pont praised him for his "faithful, honest and cooperative service." He has counseled and instructed many recruit inspectors and has never lost a case in court," Pont explained.

The inspectors were in Lincoln for an all day conference called by Chief Enforcement Officer Ed J. Nickolte. The commissioners spoke briefly and Inspector Ernest Mason of North Platte discussed interviews and interrogations.

'Assurance' Idea Sold Ike — Churchill

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill voiced confidence Thursday he has sold President Eisenhower and the French on "the justice and advantage" of offering Russia guarantees against aggression.

"The Soviet Union is entitled to assurances against aggression after what she suffered at Hitler's hands," the 79-year-old statesman told the House of Commons in a review of world affairs.

"I think I was successful in pressing upon my colleagues at Bermuda the justice and advantage of such a course even though Russian strength is so vast," he said.

'Security Feeling Needed'

Churchill expressed hope the proposed four-power foreign ministers' meeting in Berlin would produce "some means to provide Russia with a sense of security arising from other facts than mere force."

"The whole world is in need of that," he said.

Russia has agreed to the Berlin meeting, but has not yet accepted the Jan. 4 date proposed by the Western Big Three at Bermuda.

Churchill brimmed with confidence and good humor in his speech, opening a one-day debate on foreign affairs.

He termed President Eisenhower's recent United Nations speech proposing a world pool of atomic powers for peaceful development of the atom as "one of the most important events in world history since the end of the war."

"I fervently hope the Soviet Union will not ignore this beam of light amid so much darkness and confusion," Churchill said.

"I trust they (the Russians) will advance with the confidence to which their own strength entitles them along the path which certainly leads in the direction of expanding welfare and calming the fears of the masses of the people of all the world."

(In Washington, State Department Press Officer Henry Strydom declined to comment on Churchill's statement about security guarantees. But he pointed out that representatives of the United States, Britain and France are busy in Paris considering problems which may come up in Berlin. He said "it is our desire to have an affirmative approach to the amelioration of international difficulties at Berlin.")

Churchill said he thought Eisenhower's atomic pool proposal had "ended a long period of deadlock and might afford an opportunity for contact with the Soviets on the highest level."

He said there now was "an easier atmosphere" on the exchange of atomic information between the United States and Britain and expressed hope the two countries would come "into closer, more agreeable and more fertile relationship upon atomic knowledge."

Air Mail to Santa Claus

Iglouville, North Pole, Dec. 18

DEAR CHILDREN:

It was a wonderful day. The air was so clear that when the reindeer and I took to the sky to hunt for a baby reindeer for Mrs. Santa's Christmas I could see very far in all directions.

We skimmed along enjoying the fresh air and the scenery. Down below I could see herds of deer pawing the snow for the moss they love, and now and then I spied a little white bunny scurrying through the bushes. The birds played some kind of game like drop the handkerchief around the sled as we flew along.

I took my telescope out and searched the earth for a baby deer. I could not see even one. But I noticed something white lying on a rough patch of ice. I couldn't make out what it was until I screwed up my telescope a little and then I was amazed to find it was a white deer that had caught one of its legs in a hole in the ice.

I signaled to my reindeer to drop down and we slid onto the ground beside the deer. He was snowy white, with soft, beautiful fur. He looked at us with his gentle eyes and tossed his head toward the foot as if to ask for help.

I hurried to get my ice-hatchet and chop the ice away from the deer's foot, and then I helped him up. But he could not walk and I knew that the leg was broken. The deer was very brave and did not whimper. He was gentle, too, and seemed to know I wanted to help him. All my reindeer were watching anxiously, for they have the most loving hearts in the world.

I decided to take the deer home where I could set his leg and care for him until it healed. So I wrapped him in my robe and lifted him into the sled. Then I gave the reindeer the word to go home, and away we went.

"Well," I thought happily, "I didn't find a baby deer, but surely Mrs. Santa will love this beautiful white deer for her Christmas."

Love,
Santa Claus

BERIA MAY BE TRIED PRIVATELY IN ABSENTIA

MOSCOW (U)—The treason trial of Lavrenty Beria and six alleged henchmen probably will be held in private with the accused themselves absent, legal experts said Thursday.

Observers came to this conclusion after studying a special law of Dec. 1, 1934, on which Soviet newspapers announced the former police boss and his co-defendants will be tried.

The law provides, among other things, that the "trial shall take place without the presence of the parties."

It also specifies the court must wind up its investigation of evidence within 10 days, conviction carries the death penalty, and there shall be no appeal.

All Soviet newspapers carried the government announcement that Beria has confessed to plotting against the state and will go on trial with six aides in the police organization he headed for 15 years.

The official announcement said the prosecution had completed its case against Beria, who served as Premier Georgi Malenkov's top deputy until his arrest last June, and that the seven would be tried at a special sitting of the Soviet Supreme Court. No trial date was announced.

Russians expressed surprise in the disclosure that V. N. Merkulov, minister of state control, was one of the defendants. Merkulov had long served as a Beria deputy.

If Beria and his co-defendants are to be tried secretly in absentia, the outside world apparently will have no proof that the former police boss may not in fact already be dead.

The provisions of the 1934 law would seem to exclude the presence of any independent foreign observers at the trial.

Medical Body Offers Sharp Thinking Advice

CHICAGO (U)—The Journal of the American Medical Association Thursday offered advice along this line:

If soon you have to do sharp thinking.

You better not do any drinking.

The article suggested that, if you have something important to do, don't drink beforehand. It added:

"The drinker should observe the following rule: For every two drinks he should wait three hours before undertaking important activities."

Tax Ruling
Stirs Ire
Of Officials
Gering To Get Larger
Slice Of CPPD 'Melon'

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb. (AP) — Scottsbluff's city officials are
"up in arms" as the result of an announcement by City Attorney Jack Lyman that some of its share of the tax melon is going to be tasted by other sections of the county.

Lyman told the City Council that County Treasurer P. Cooper
Ellis, "through his own interpretation of the law," was planning to give the Gering school system a larger share of the "in lieu of taxes" collected from Consumers Public Power District.
"Ellis went further than this,"
he said the Consumers payment would be increased in some 12 to 15 of the county's school districts with the city of Scottsbluff and the Scottsbluff school district compensating by having large decreases.

Gering, Mitchell To Benefit
Gering and the Mitchell school systems would receive the major increase in amounts from the Consumer payment, Ellis said.

Scottsbluff's objections stem from the fact that Mitchell and Gering have their own electric plants while Scottsbluff is supplied by the Consumers district.
City fathers cannot see increasing funds to school districts which are almost untouched by Consumer operations when the Scottsbluff citizens are the chief electricity users of the county's Consumer system.

$3,000 A Year
Ellis said Scottsbluff's loss from "consumers" in lieu of taxes would amount to about $3,000 a year to both the school and city under the new system of distribution. The gain to Gering would be an estimated $2,000 a year, Ellis said.

In replying to the Scottsbluff attorney's remark on law interpretation, Ellis said that "there is no interpretation of the law involved. My instructions and orders are very definite and written in plain language and are not subject to varied interpretation.
I am following them 100 per cent."

The county treasurer added that he was basing the new distribution system on a state law passed in 1947, but did not explain the law's requirements since "it would only confuse the issue."

Low Salary Caused 'Hardships,' Federal Judge Says

Had To Discharge His Maid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chief Judge Boltha J. Laws of the U. S. District Court here testified Thursday that when he went on the federal bench in 1938 he was compelled to resign from two private clubs, discharge his maid and take up early morning and Saturday law teaching.

Judge Laws told a special federal commission studying the adequacy of judicial and congressional salaries that despite these economies he had to spend in the next 15 years $40,000 more than he earned.

Now 62 years old, Judge Laws said his take-home pay today, based on a salary of $15,000 is $1,000 less than it was when he was 29 years old and practicing law.

"The situation of judges, and of course the Congress, is most serious," Judge Laws said.

The 16-member commission, set up by Congress, is headed by Bernard C. Segal, a Philadelphia lawyer. It is due to make salary recommendations to Congress by Jan. 15. There is every indication it will advise Congress to vote substantial increases for itself and for federal judges.

Judge Laws apologized to the commission for reciting so much personal history. He said he was much more fortunate than many of the 318 federal judges.

He said he accumulated a modest nest egg during 25 years of private law practice, but has been forced to spend it at the rate of $2,700 a year since 1938. He has managed to send his four children to school and college, he said. His son had to help pay his way through Dartmouth with the aid of a sandwich concession.

After listening to the judge, Lloyd Wright of Los Angeles, a commission member, said: "This is shocking and shameful. I want to say it's too bad all the people in this country can't hear your testimony."

Judge Laws said he didn't think "a cent less than a $10,000 raise would give any relief."

But Rep. Clare Hoffman (R-Mich.) said he is against any salary increases at this time. He testified he is "almost on relief" but that a salary increase for judges and members of Congress would only lead to "a spiral of inflation."

Judge Still Waits
DENVER (INS)—A week ago Denver Municipal Judge Mitchell Johns gave a shabby youthful offender $1.25 to "go get a haircut" and return. To date the judge hasn't seen the youth or his $1.25.

By-Passes for Trucks?

Nice, but Nebraska can't afford them, the State Highway Department says. So trucks will probably continue to follow the highways through towns. Read this story in the Dec. 20 Sunday Journal and Star.

WISHING WELL

ONE MAN'S OPINION By Walter Kiernan

The discovery that the Statue of Liberty is in New Jersey and not New York is interesting but it hardly seems necessary for all the Jersey commuters to sing "God Bless America" in mid-stream every day.

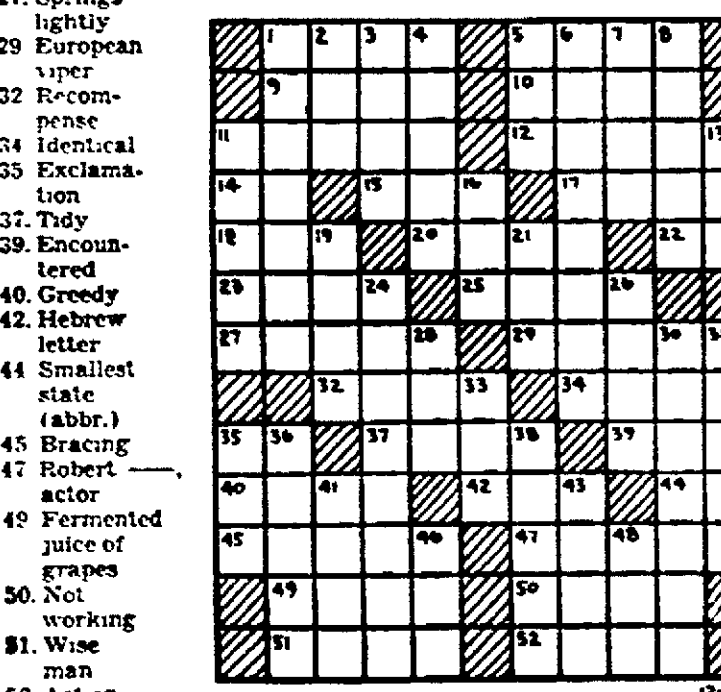

One historian says Miss Liberty was always in New Jersey, but she gave a New York address while Hague was in power.

All I know is that she has kept her back turned on Manhattan since they put her out there on the island and we've never been able to figure whether it is to welcome newcomers or resist temptation.

But she'd be a grand old girl if she was in the middle of the Grand Canyon no matter who claims her for tax purposes.

You sometimes wonder how even a Vishinsky can pass her

Corn, Beans Show Firm On Slow Day

CHICAGO (AP)—Grains came to a mixed close on the Board of Trade Thursday after another session of quiet dealings. Old crop wheat contracts and all other weakened. New crop wheat held steady. Corn had a firm undertone all day and several months ended at the peaks. Soybeans ran up sharply in the closing minutes, largely on short covering.

Wheat closed 1 1/2 lower to 1 1/2 higher, 3/4-1 1/2 higher and 1/2-1 1/2 lower. The late run in soybeans was an exact reverse of what happened in the two previous sessions. Immediately after the close, the Agriculture Department issued a report showing a reduction in 262,341,000 bushels compared with 252,276,000 a month ago. A fairly unexpected boost of about 10 million bushels was immediately interpreted by grain analysts as definitely bullish. They felt it would have an adverse effect on prices in Friday's early dealings.
